THE NEW REVENUE LAW.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has given notice by telegraph to Collectors that spirits may be withdrawn from bond on the payment of fifty cents per gallon, and four dollars per barrel of forty gallons, equal to sixty cents a proof gallon. All distilleries must be closed until distillers have given new bonds and complied with the recently passed law in all particulars.

Accompanying it is a promulgation from the Secretary of State to the effect that said amendment has been ratified by three-fourths of the States and becomes valid as a part of the Constitution the United States.

Gen. E. Hovey, of Ill., has been brevetted Major General by the President for gallant and meritorious conduct at Chickasaw Bayou and Arkansas Pass in the winter of 1862 and '63.

THE FUNDING BILL NOT SIGNED.

There is no probability of the President signing the Funding bill, which therefore fails to become a law.

CHIEF OF ORDNANCE.

Admiral Dahlgren assumes the duties of Chief of Ordnance on August 1st.

Movements of the Indians.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

ST. LOUIS, July 29.—A letter from Ellsworth, of the 23d, says the Indian question has assumed a new phase. All the tribes that were at Fort Larned have left, and no one knows where they have gone. Small parties are met by persons coming in from the plains, but they hold no communication with the whites, which is a sign they mean mischief. The opinion prevails that they have gone south with their women and children, and that they will soon swarm on the railroad line and routes traversed by trains with hostile purposes. Reports arrive daily of their killing people, and robbing trains. General Sully is still at Fort Larned, and has ordered the troops in his department to concentrate on the line of the Arkansas river. Fort Sarah will be fully garrisoned, and other preparations be made to meet any exigencies that may arise.

CHICAGO, July 28.—A letter dated Fort Buford, July 17th, says that the Indian Commissioners have made a treaty, at Fort Hawley, with the Grosventre Indians, and were awaiting the arrival of the Yellowstone Sioux for a like purpose. The Grosventres have agreed to make a settlement and accept the reservation in the Milk River country, to keep peace with the whites and all Indian tribes, save the Bagars and Blackfeet. With these tribes they are determined to make their own terms.

TENNESSEE.

Governor Brownlow's Message to the Legislature—Fatal Affray.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NASHVILLE, July 28.—Governor Brownlow's message was read in the Legislature this morning. In stating the reasons which prompted him to call the Legislature together, he says the action of that body last winter left him without authority to employ the militia, and he accordingly paid and disbanded those in service. Members had been told by the Conservatives that there was no use for the military, that all would be quiet in the State; but at the same time rebel paroled soldiers were forming themselves into secret organized bands to overthrow the State government and carry the Presidential election. He regards those bands as murderers and robbers, and recommends the Legislature to declare them outlaws, punishable with death wherever found. He calls upon members who have been insisting upon his calling out the military for their protection to pass the necessary laws to give him sufficient clerical force to carry out his orders and money to defray the expense and to pay what force is necesary. He says he intends the responsibility shall rest with the Legislative and not the Executive Department. If military force is ordered, laws must be passed to protect them in all proper acts whilst on duty. Should the Legislature prefer some other party to have charge of the military he will stand aside.

Gov. Brownlow calls attention to the financial condition of Tennessee, and recommends that a special committee be appointed to investigate the conspiracy which prevented the payment of the July interest.

In conclusion he says: "I have been appealed to by promiuent men of both political parties to urge upon you the propriety of removing political disabilities formerly imposed upon a large class of rebels. The conduct of that class of people has been and it still is such that I do not feel justified in making this recommendation. They have a military organization in this State, whose avowed object is to trample the laws under foot and force the party in power to enfranchise themselves and their sympathizers. I cannot stultify myself by yielding to this request, accompanied by threats of violence. If the members of the General Assembly are alarmed for their personal safety, and feel disposed to sue for peace upon the terms proposed by an armed mob, they will, of course, take a different view of the subject. Any recommendation of this kind, if made at all, should be made at a regular and not at a called session of your body, and whether such recommendation and corresponding action thereupon shall be deemed wise at your adjourned meeting in November next, can then be more safely determined by strictly observing the conduct of these unreconstruction-Ku-Klux-rebels and their sympathizing supporters between this time and that."

MEMPHIS, July 28.—This afternoon as L. H. Coe was passing the house of John Hoyt, near Elmwood Cemetery, he was attacked by Hoyt and his son. Coe being armed with a shot gun, fired upon young Hoyt killing him, and then fired at the elder Hoyt, wounding him severely. Coe came to the city, gave himself up, and was bonded in the sum of twenty thousand dollars. It is stated the Hoyt's frequently threatened to kill Coe.

THE TRIBUNE AND CONGRESS.

The Tribune pronounces the session of Congress as giving ground for confidence in the firmness and patriotism of our Representatives, and regrets the President's power for mischief was not more carefully circumscribed and the three excluded States admitted, and that the financial question has been left in a chaotic state, causing the session to be chiefly remembered for opposition to contraction and the unfortunate reduction of taxes.

Louisiana Legislature.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW ORLEANS, July 28.—During the debate in the Senate yesterday on the resolutions to appoint a committee to inquire into the action of the Board of Registration created by the Convention, the lie was passed.

A. L. Lee, member of the House from St. Bernard Parish, and editor and proprietor of the New Orleans Republican, is appointed State Printer.

Governor Warmouth yesterday vetoed the joint resolution requesting the General of the Armies to furnish troops to the civil authorities. The Governor instructed the Senate that the law in the case required application to be made to the President and not to the General of the Armies. The veto was sustained to-day, and the same bill was introduced and amended in accordance with the information furnished by the Governor and passed by the Senate under a suspension of the rules.

Georgia Legislature—No Choice for U. S. Senators.

For short term: Blodgett, fifty-seven; Miller, ——; scattering, thirty-one.

Reception to Senator Hendricks.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

INDIANAPOLIS, July 28.—Senator Hendricks arrived here from Washington this evening and his reception was one of the most imposing political demonstrations that has taken place here for years, and formally opens the campaign of '68 on the part of the Democracy of Indiana. On his arrival at the Union Depot a national salute was fired, and Mr. Hendricks was escorted by a torch-light procession, with the usual accompaniments of music and fire-works, to the Court House square, where he was welcomed by Hon. John E. McDonald in a brief and appropriate speech, to which Mr. Hendricks responded at length, reviewing and denouncing the entire political and financial policy of the Republican party, and claiming peace and prosperity could only be had by the return of the Democratic party to power.

Subornation of Perjury.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

LEAVENWORTH, July 28.—C. H. Stillwell was arrested here yesterday on a charge of subornation of perjury, in procuring false testimony against C. D. Leeper, whose boot and shoe store was burned in Delaware street last spring. It was attempted to prove by this testimony that Leeper fired the building in which his store was to get the insurance, and Stillwell, it seems, undertook to obtain testimony with the above result.

Wasgington Topics and Gossip.

The President denies that he has ever said he would not hold intercourse with the newly elected officers in the Southern States. He says he fully recognizes the reconstruction acts of Congress, and will execute them as far as he can under the Constitution. His power by the veto was used wherever it was applicable, and this failing, his hands are tied, and he has nothing to do but obey the will of the representatives of the people. He believes, however, that men of entirely different opinions will be chosen to the Forty-first Congress.

The nominations for Minister to Equador, Naval Officer at New York and Marshal for the Western District of Pennsylvania, were the only important ones not acted on by the Senate, except that of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

An examination of the Treasury records shows that a large amount of securities are never returned for redemption, and still a larger amount is not presented until long over due. Of the one year five per cent. temporary loan certificates issued four years ago, over one million dollars are yet outstanding, and it is expected that a larger part of this will never be heard from. Of the Seven-thirty notes payable in August, 1867, $657,550 have never been presented, though more than eighteen months over due. Of those due June 30th, 1868, there are yet out $2,941,200. The time having elapsed for the redemption of these two classes, seven-thirties are not exchangeable for five-twenties, but are redeemable in currency and no longer drawing interest. Of the last issue of Seven-thirties, due July 15th, the time has been extended to August 1st. So if not presented for conversion this week, there yet remains outstanding over ten million dollars redeemable in currency.

Wooley, who figured so prominently in the recent impeachment trial, has sued out a writ against General Butler, in Baltimore, for false imprisonment in incarcerating him before he had authority to do so from the House. He claims damages to the amount of one hundred thousand dollars. A process was served upon Mr. Butler last night as he passed through Baltimore on his way to Massachusetts. At the same time another writ was served upon him for a suit brought by Kimberly Brothers, of Baltimore, to recover one thousand dollars alleged to have been extorted from them by Mr. Butler while commanding at Fortress Monroe.

LETTERS FROM EUROPE---NO. 2.

Landing—Queenstown—Cork—Irish Depopulation—Blarney Castle and its Kissing-Stone—The Lakes of Killarney—Irish Railways—An Orangeman's Day.

Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Gazette.

DUBLIN, IRELAND, July 6, 1868.

EDITORS GAZETTE:—On Lord's day, July 5th, about twelve o'clock noon, having been out at sea ten days and a half, we caught our first glimpse of land. It was a beautiful day—the most pleasant day of sailing that we had. The sun shone brightly, the wind had fallen, and the sea was placid and smiling. All were soon on the upper deck, some looking with the naked eye and some through glasses, eager to see land and to obtain their first view of the "Emerald Isle." We saw, dimly in the distance, the bold rugged outline of the Cork Mountains, and soon we were past Cape Clear, when the rocky, barren desert-like coast of extreme South Ireland appeared to our view. As we proceeded the shore became less abrupt, and up and back therefrom beautiful green fields, cultivated land and houses were visible. On our right we passed Fastnet Lighthouse, standing as it does on the summit of a huge Island rock, and various other objects that attracted the attention of all on board.

At seven o'clock in the evening we were met, seven miles from our landing place, by a "tender" sent to convey to Queenstown those passengers wishing to land there, and make the "tour of Ireland." We stopped at the wharf between eight and nine o'clock, but before we were allowed to go on shore, our baggage, or as it is here called, luggage, underwent the customary inspection. The first and almost only question asked by the Custom House officers was "Have you any tobacco or firearms?" Two of those on board (we, of course, were not one of them,) having the latter were dispossessed of them, and coolly told they could get them again by making proper application to magistrate Hamilton, who resides at Cork. The Government officials are extremely suspicious of anything and everything that might be construed into sympathy with Fenianism. Queenstown, our landing place, was formerly called the Cove of Cork. Eighteen years ago, the Queen coming to Ireland on a visit, there first set her foot on the land, and either at her own suggestion or at the request of the inhabitants—I could not learn which—the place was thenceforth called Queenstown. It is a village of some two thousand inhabitants, situated on the face of the hill, having no special attractiveness in itself, but from the heights in the rear there is afforded a good view of its spacious harbor and the beautifully green and highly cultivated surrounding country. The prospect is fine, grand, and one I shall never forget. It was charming to behold; the eye was delighted, the soul pleased with the view of both land and water, and I said to myself, if all Ireland is like this, it is indeed beautiful. Cork, about ten miles distant from Queenstown, up the river Lea, I did not like—neither the town nor its people. It is strongly Catholic—there being throughout the country in which it is situated, ten Catholics to one Protestant. It is full of beggars, and many of its streets very narrow and very dirty. Its size, or the number of inhabitants it contains, I could not ascertain, although I asked four different persons. The first whom I questioned answered sixty thousand; the second, ninety thousand; the third five thousand, and the fourth one hundred and fifty thousand—a wide difference in the answers. What is true of all Ireland, however, is true of Cork. It is being gradually depopulated, losing its people by about one thousand every year. In 1848 Ireland had, it is said, a population of eight millions; in 1868 it has but four millions. The emigration is large, and I do not wonder that it is. Labor is so cheap that the poor can earn but a bare subsistence; and many are longing to go to America, who cannot go, through want of means to take them there. A laboring man receives for his work from six to eight shillings per week, i. e. from two dollars to two and a-half of our money in currency. And many who get no more have wives and children to support. How they manage to do it I cannot tell. Their children cannot be sent to school, and as a consequence great ignorance prevails.

Cork is a city of considerable commercial importance, being situated at the head of navigation on the river Lea. The river is spanned by nine durable stone-arched bridges. The city has some good streets, and some places of interest for the traveller to visit, among which is the very old church of Shandon, once Catholic, but which in the time of Cromwell came into possession of the Protestants. We heard its chime of bells of which Father Prout wrote:

"Sweet bells of Shandon
That sound so grand on
The beautiful waters of the river Lea."

In Cork is the Court House in which most of the Fenian prisoners have been tried, and about one hundred are now confined there.

While at Cork we paid a visit to "Blarney Castle," five miles distant. On our way out we had glimpses of rural life in Ireland. We saw how the peasantry live in their low white-washed houses with straw-thatched roofs. Blarney Castle is well worth a visit. Its ruins are magnificent and in a remarkable state of preservation. It was built—so it is said—in 1446, four hundred and twenty-two years since, and has been in a state of decay for nearly 350 years. Its "donjoun," or innermost retreat is one hundred and twenty feet high, from the summit of which is afforded a fine view of the whole surrounding country. Many persons have but an indistinct idea of what is meant by a castle or of the object for which it is built. There are many of them in the old world, and they are visited by the traveller simply because it is customary; and many go, and see and go away again without learning much of anything from their visit. A castle is literally, a little camp. Castrum, in Latin, is a camp. From castrum is derived castellum which signifies a little or small camp, and from the latter term (castellum) comes our word castle. It is a small, but strongly fortified place; and was built for purposes of defence, as everything about it clearly shows. When the country was first conquered the land was divided among a few—the conquerors and their principal officers and soldiers. This is the origin of the large landed estates in Great Britain. Barons and Lords frequently waged war against each other, and to defend themselves, they erected at enormous labor and expense, castles—fortified places. Blarney Castle was built by, and for many years, was the home of the McCarthys. I measured the thickness of the walls of the "donjon," or inmost apartment, and found them to be ten feet and a half thick, and built in the most solid and substantial manner. It would require much cannonading, even of the modern kind, to batter them down.

Very near the highest point of the Castle is a large stone called the "Blarney Stone," and which is said to possess the power of imparting to whomsoever kisses it a "peculiar and irresistible eloquence." Hence the origin of the word blarney. An old Irish woman, who stays about the Castle, told one of our party that if she would only kiss the Blarney Stone she would be ever afterwards blarneying the people. Some rhymer has written as follows:

"There is a stone there, whoever kisses,
Oh! he never misses to grow eloquent,
A clever spouter, he'll sure turn out, or
An out-an-outer, to be let alone.
Don't hope to hinder him, or to bewilder him,
Sure he's a pilgrim from the Blarney Stone."

I did not, however, kiss the Blarney Stone. There seemed to me to be too much risk of life in it, as it is 120 feet from the ground, and so situated that a single slip of hand or foot might dash you to pieces on the rocks below.

From Cork we went by rail forty miles to the far-famed lakes of Killarney, in the southwest of Ireland. Here we remained one day, though, had our time allowed, we could profitably and pleasantly have spent three or four. Killarney is said to be the most beautiful spot in Ireland, and in some respects I doubt not it is. I have as yet seen nothing to compare with it in all that is grand, noble, picturesque and inspiring in natural scenery. During the day we spent here we traveled, in wagonette, on foot, and in row boat, over thirty miles. There are three lakes, (called the Lakes of Killarney, the Lower, Middle and Upper, the largest of which is nine miles long and four miles broad,) dotted with rocky islands and surrounded by bold lofty mountains, on the peaks of which are plainly visible the clouds of heaven. The highest of the mountains is something over two thousand feet. Virgil speaks of the goat "hanging on the rock." While viewing these mountains we had many illustrations of the saying. Goats here and there were "hanging" on the rocks, and so high were they that they seemed no larger than rabbits at ten rods distant. During the whole of the ride over the lakes there is a rapid succession of most varied, grand and enchanting mountain scenery, and not the least pleasant incident to the visitor at these lakes is the sound of the bugle, the echo of whose notes, rolling from mountain to mountain, and heard two or three times, minded me of the music of heaven. Should any of our acquaintances ever visit these lakes we would recommend them to the guideship of "Sir Patrick Knight, of the Gap of Dunloe," who will call attention to the various objects of interest, and entertain them now and then with a "speech," all for the small sum of half a crown.

At Cork we met our townsmen, Mr. C. C. Boyle, of Allegheny, and Mr. J. D. Thompson, merchant, of Pittsburgh, well known to you, in company with whom we made the tour of the Lakes at Killarney, and went thence to Dublin. These gentlemen are on a European tour. They expect to visit Scotland, England, the Continent, and be from home about three months. They are pleasant gentlemen and we hope they may reap much benefit from their tour. They came over on the steamer "City of Paris," inman line, which halted off Queenstown on the morning of July 6th.

Bidding adieu to Killarney with its beautiful lakes and wild romantic scenery, we came by rail, a distance of 165 miles, to Dublin, the metropolis of Ireland. On our way we passed through a tract of fine picturesque country, the Cork Mountains on our right and the Tipperary on our left. Neat, tasteful, white country seats with walls surrounding them, and numerous hedgerows, often met our eyes. By the way, let me say that railroad traveling in Ireland, while it is more rapid, is certainly more expensive than in the United States. You have to pay about three and a third cents per mile in gold, which is at least fifty per cent. higher than at home, and if you ride in a first class car you pay more.

There are three classes of cars here, first, second and third; and the fare for riding in a third class car is some what less than half what it is for riding in a first class car. For instance, from Cork to Killarney, the fare for a first class car is eleven shillings, for a second class, eight, and for a third class, five.

The railroads are substantially built, smooth and well ballasted. The sides in many places are finely graded and sodded, and hay is cut therefrom. The cars are much lighter than ours. There is no "conductor" on the train; an official called a "guard" accompanies it, and there is no system of checking baggage. You must look after your own luggage: Railroad managers on this side the great waters have much respect for human life. Accidents seldom occur. Passengers are not allowed to pass or walk over the track. If for instance, you have come to your place of changing cars, you step out, go up a flight of stairs, pass along a sort of bridge, go down another flight of stairs, and thus reach the car into which you wish to go.

Yesterday, July 12th, was a great day on the Emerald Isle, especially for the Orangemen. It was the anniversary of the battle of Aghrim between James II. and William the III. in 1691. Flags were flying from the tops of the churches, and "Orange" sermons were preached. Yesterday being Lord's Day they have their processions to-day. The Orangemen are the loyal party of the country—loyal to the English government, and opposed to the agitation and so-called disloyalty of the Fenians. They are called Orangemen because they advocate the views held by William III., the Prince of Orange. There is much dissatisfaction and discontent at the present time among many of the Irish people. But of this I will write at another time. J. K.

LITTLE THINGS.

BY ALICE CARY.

Shall we strike a bargain, Fate?
And will thou to this agree?
Take whatever things are great,
Leave the little things to me.

Take the eagle, proud and dark,
Broad of shoulders, strong of wing;
Leave the robin, leave the lark;
'Tis the little birds that sing.

Take the oak-wood, towering up,
With its top against the skies;
Leave me little acorn-cups,
Therein all the forest lies.

Take the mountainous fountain-heads,
Take the river winding slow,
But about my garden beds
Leave the dew-drop, small and low.

Winding waters are fine to view,
Sweet the fountains silver call;
But the little drop of dew
Holds the sunshine, after all.

Take the sea, the great, wide sea,
White with many a swelling sail;
Leave the little stream to me,
Gliding silent through the vale.

Poesy will find her th me
In thy grander portion, still
'Tis my little, upraised stream,
Or the meadow that turns the mill.

Take the palace, all ashine,
With its lofty halls and towers;
Let the little house be mine,
With its door-yard, grass and flowers.

Take the lands, the royal lands,
All with parks and orchards bright;
Leave to me the little hands,
Clinging close y morn and night.

Ah, for once be kindly, Fate,
To my harmless plan agree:
Take whatever things are great,
Leave the little things to me!

—Lord Abercorn spends $250,000 a year. He is Vice Roy of Ireland, and the Marquis of Bute is to marry one of his daughters.

—The Princess Tour d'Auvergne has presented to France the spot of ground where Christ delivered the "Sermon on the Mount."

—Fortunate Cincinnati has fifty-two milkmen who sell pure milk, but then, on the contrary, there one hundred and eleven who don't.

—The fat men of Utica, N. Y. are to have a picnic next month; no man is to be allowed to be present who does not weigh at least 250 pounds.

—The young Prince of Abyssinia, now in England, wears a Knickerbocker suit and a straw hat, and consequently looks anything but savage.

—What once were frocks became dresses in the ultra refinement of American English, and are now spoken of as toilettes by all fashionable writers.

—Four negro children were burnt to death in a cabin, in which they had been left alone by their parents the other day, in Choctaw county, Alabama.

—The widowed ex-Queen of Greece says that King George will be expelled from his throne within two years. The wish is probably mother to the prediction.

—We see in a Democratic paper a statement that Grant and Colfax, if elected, will be assassinated before March, and that, therefore, no humane person will vote for them.

—The harvest reports from Russia are unfavorable. The grain crops in the northern and middle sections of the empire have turned out badly, the yield being unusually small and poor!

—Charles Kent, editor of the London Sun, wrote the welcome to Longfellow in the London Times. The similarity of the initial made many persons think it was Charles Kingsley.

—Schneider, the Grande Duchess, has a set of diamonds more magnificent than the gala regalia of the queen of Prussia, besides having a little fortune of about $100,000 put by for rainy days.

—The members of the Irish Legion hold a meeting in New York to-day to raise money to pay for a monument which they mean to erect to the memory of those of their comrades who fell during the war.

—The Crown Prince of Denmark has fallen in love with an English Countess, and therefore objects to marrying the Swedish Princess. The royal papa has forbidden the royal rebel from any more of his pleasant little excursions to England.

—Fifty-four hours in a luxurious car will take one, from the shore of Lake Michigan, and a temperature up in the nineties, to the snow-capped mountains of Colorado, where overcoats are in demand. A year or two ago, as many days were often consumed in the trip.

—Berthold Auerbach is dying, his physicians have told him he cannot live many weeks. His name will live forever in the memories of those who have read his charming books, but most especially "On the Heights," than which no sweeter novel ever was written.

—Gen. Cary, alias the Apostate, has accepted the nomination of the workingmen in Cincinnati for a re-election to Congress. General Cary has had but one term in the House of Representatives, and fifty years from now the same statement will probably still be true.

—The Allegheny river, yesterday morning, was, we would be willing to wager, the filthiest, dirtiest, greasiest and most variegated river on the globe's face. Although we have had many years' experience of this river, we never saw it when it seemed so much to want a good washing as it did yesterday.

—During the past week five barks, four ships and two brigs, carrying in all 1,873,975 gallons of petroleum, cleared from the port of Philadelphia for Hamburg, Bremen, Cork, Antwerp, Rotterdam and Gibralter. Since the first of January 19,452,100 gallons of petroleum have been exported from Philadelphia alone.

—One of the Vienna papers which thinks itself well informed but is not, says that General Grant owes his nomination to the fact that he is the handsomest man in the army. We never heard this before, although we have heard that General Hancock thinks himself the handsomest man in the army, but then he did not get any nomination.

—An old woman living on the Rue de la Paix, in Paris, has made a large fortune in a singular and disreputable manner. She advertises for pretty little girls, whom she adopts. She then educates them for the ballet and receives fifteen per cent. of their various earnings. She has at present quite an army of these singular and well-paying investments.

—The old Archduchess Sophie of Austria still rules with her iron sceptre all of Austria that Von Beust has not usurped. At present she is especially down on the French Emperor, and lets her old tongue wag to the most scandalous stories about the Imperial family of France, whom she cannot forgive for the murder of her son Maximilian.

—The new volume of the Lenormand Prophecies predicts another war in Germany and North America in the summer of 1869, a revolutionary outbreak in France and Russia, the death of two powerful monarchs and the entire destruction of one of the great military powers on the continent. Short crops and a subsequent famine are also predicted for 1869.

—A large number of photographs, purporting to be likenesses of President Johnson, were sold in the various European capitals during the impeachment trial; some of them were really what they purported to be; but others were likenesses of McClellan, Frémont, Sumner, or any other old American photographs which the publishers could lay their hands on; and thus some obscure German print sellers have handed down the faces of some of the most eminent Americans to future infamy.

—Of all the ridiculous freaks of fashion surely the Grecian bend is the most absurd. Every time we see a young woman walking in the street bent at the waist as if in agony we feel like whispering to her that a dose of pepper-mint would probably relieve her. But when men, or those creatures who call themselves men, put on corsets and assume this frightfully ungraceful crook as they mince along the streets, we really feel as if the brand of cane or cowhide would be the best thing for them, but probably the disastrous effects on figure and constitution, which are sure to result from such unnatural contortion, will be punishment quite severe enough for them.

—The City Councils are at present showing a spirit of energetic progress, not often shown by that body heretofore, probaly because the old city was too small. Now while they are about the task of radically improving the city, it would be an excellent thing if they would turn their attention to public baths. No city in the world probably, needs them more, for in no other city are the people so exposed to dirt. Nearly all of the eastern cities have provided these comforts for their people, and when we are waking up so thoroughly on other subjects, why should we not also on this? With public baths and drinking fountains established, and an ordinance passed rendering the consumption of smoke obligatory with all manufactories, within the city limits, the city fathers could retire from their present positions, when the time comes, with the certain assurance that they had done more for the causes of cleanliness, temperance and humanity, than any other body of men ever assembled within out limits.

THE SEASON AT SARATOGA is now in full blast, and balls and parties succeed each other rapidly. The grand ball of the season came off at Congress Hall on Tuesday night. The toilettes are described as unusually elegant. A correspondent says that Miss Daniels, of Baltimore, attracted more attention than any other lady in the ballroom for her beauty, stylish figure, flashing eyes, and, above all, for the elegance and extreme fashion of her dress. She wore a rich black skirt with a very long train and an amber tunic, with puffs over it a black lace shawl drawn rather tight over the shoulders and chest, and brought behind under the arms, where it was tied in a careless sort of knot. She wore her light colored hair loose and straight at the back of the head, something after the manner that fair-haired young girls are in the habit of wearing their hair now. Imagine such a dress standing well out over the hips and behind by the aid of large panniers, with a slender waist, a most flexible figure, the Grecian bend to perfection, and a dainty, tripping and lithe carriage, and an idea may be formed of this Baltimore belle in the ball room. Miss Wall, of New York, attracted a great deal of attention. Her fine form was well set off by a close fitting, rich pink dress, with white lace trimmings round the neck, which was moderately low, though not extremely so, and in good taste. The train was very long. Miss Alexander, of New York, the charming niece of Speaker Colfax, wore an elegant pink dress of silk, with a moderate train and of the latest Paris make and style. Though not so showy as some other dresses, nothing could be in better taste or better suited to the small and pretty figure and to the complexion of the fair wearer. Trains were much worn, except by the very young ladies. The toilettes generally were remarkable for their richness and elegance, but one was most struck by the variety, beauty and splendor of the colors. The first ball at the Clarendon took place last night, and was a gay affair. The races will commence next week. Politics are entirely ignored, and people seem bent on having a good time.

—Officer John Smidick, of the Twenty-first Precinct, New York, was shot and instantly killed on Thursday night, by John Reed, who was arrested. He does not deny the killing, and gives as a reason for it his desire to revenge himself on Smidick for being arrested by him.

On the premises is a pump of lasting and excellent water, and the surface of the lots is level and needs neither filling nor grading to prepare them for building purposes, and being in a section of the city where property is increasing very rapidly in value make them desirable for an investment, especially as the present houses rent for enough to pay a good interest on the sum asked for the whole property. Call soon on the undersigned and secure a cheap, safe and paying investment.

Also, A FARM OF 160 ACRES of good land, situated in East Wheatfield township, Indiana Co., Pa., 90 acres of which is cleared land, in good cultivation, 20 acres being in excellent meadow. The improvements are a two-story frame dwelling house of 4 rooms, a frame bank barn, 36x60 feet, with stabling underneath, and other outbuildings, all in good repair. It is in a good neighborhood, convenient to schools, churches, stores, &c., and will be sold very low for cash or approved securities.

Also, a RIVER BOTTOM FARM of 70 acres, 19 miles from the city, in Elizabeth township, Allegheny county, Pa., on the Youghiogheny river, one-half mile from Elrod's Station, on the Connellsville railroad; near churches, schools, stores, &c., in the flourishing villages of Boston and Green Oak. The improvements are a two-story brick house of six rooms, hall and cellar, a good frame bank barn with stabling underneath, and other outbuildings; a well of good standing water at the door, and several standing springs of water on the farm, and an orchard of 700 trees of selected fruits of apples, cherries, pears, peaches, quinces and grapes. This property being located near the line of the railroad, within one hour's ride of the city, makes it very desirable for gardening or a dairy farm. It is also a good and beautiful location for country homes near the city, lying immediately on the river, on the opposite side from the railroad. The West Newton Accommodation and other trains on the railroad afford certain and frequent opportunities of daily communication to and from the city. Will be sold as a whole or in lots of one acre or more, to suit purchasers.

RIVER NEWS.

The river is about stationary at this point with twenty inches in the channel by the Monongahela metal mark. The weather continues cloudy and pleasant, with indications at times favorable for rain.

The towboat Monitor left for Parkersburg on Monday evening with a light tow. The Monongahela river packets are making regular trips, as usual.

We hear it said that Capt. D. S. H. Gilmore and some others, are building a new boat destined for the mountain trade.

The Echo No. 2 is to be sold at public auction to-day, and steamboatmen, particularly those in want of a boat, should bear this fact in mind.

John Greenough has taken temporary charge of the office of the Missouri packet, Mary McDonald.

—The Charmer was still on Portland bar Saturday evening, lying across the lower channel.

—The Mary Erwin struck a log near Ashland, Ky., Friday night, knocking a hole in her hull. She was only detained a few hours.

—Mr. Thomas Alvey has retired from the river department of the Louisville Democrat, and Mr. Will S. Hays resumed the position.

—An old steamboat mate, named Carnagie, minus both his legs, was at Memphis the other day. The Memphis papers berate Capt. Pat. York for refusing free passage to Carnagie on to New Orleans.

—A large number of Minnesota farmers around Minneapolis are seriously thinking of clubbing together, and sending to Texas for a large number of cattle, proposing to winter them and fat them next season for the Minneapolis market. It is said that any desired number of young cattle can be procured and transported to Minneapolis at a cost not to exceed $20 per head.

—The St. Louis Democrat, of Saturday, says: Captain Morris Brady, an old boatman, died in this city on Thursday night, of paralysis. He was well known as a St. Louis and New Orleans pilot, and lately came up on the Mohawk, on which he was employed. Capt. Brady some twelve years since bought a large side-wheel steamer called the Henry Lewis, and took her from St. Louis to Mobile, where he traded her for a smaller boat, with which he navigated the Chattahoochie river.

—An accident occurred to a lady on board the Indiana, on her trip up, which might have terminated fatally. While she and her husband were enjoying the pleasant breeze, sitting on the cabin deck, a spark from his cigar fell upon her dress, which soon broke into flame. By the prompt actions of numerous passengers who saw the precarious situation in which the lady was placed, the fire was extinguished before she was seriously injured.

—We clip the following from the Cincinnati Commercial, of Monday: The Ohio River Improvement Company, Capt. T. W. Spencer, of Parkersburg, and B. J. Caffrey, Government Inspector of Louisville, commenced operations at the bridge at Louisville, as per orders, their department being from Cincinnati to Louisville, on Monday last, and have removed this week 553 feet of snags from the channel of the river from the bridge to Mill Creek, and intend removing, the coming week, two wrecks in the harbor near shore. Also, the wrecks of the Magnolia, Wid Hoosier, and two coal boats below Mill Creek, and above Bald Face, a small stream just above Sedamsville. They propose to do a faithful job, as far as they go. Capt. W. Milner Roberts, chief of the arm of the service, visited the fleet yesterday, and was highly pleased with the operations and good performance of the Crane boats and tug, and the whole department working beyond the expectations of all parties. Capt. Roberts goes below to-day to inspect other po tions of the department. The following list includes all the boats lying at the wharf, at present: Abeona, Camelia, New York, Minneola, R. C. Gray, and Lawrence. Capt. J. T. Russell and Capt. List, of the R. R. Hudson, left for Pittsburgh in last night's train.

—The mental aberration which led Capt. Edward Morgan, Local Inspector, at St. Louis, to committ suicide by shooting on Friday, is attributed partially to a fall on the previous Monday, and partially to a difficulty he was supposed to have had with his wife on the morning of the tragedy. He was fifty-one years old, and had grown sons, one of whom is in business at New Orleans. The St. Louis Democrat says:

Captain Morgan was a native of Brownsville, Pa., and born in 1817. His family were Quakers. In 1836 he was engineer on the steamer Lady Madison, running from Pittsburgh to St. Louis; and since that time—with the exception of the past two years—has been upon the Western waters, most of the time in that capacity, where he was regarded as one of the very best in the profession. For a while during the war he commanded a gunboat—the Lafayette, if we remember correctly—in the Federal service, and from the first himself and family were loyal to the core. He leaves a wife and three sons and a daughter, all grown, besides relatives in Pennsylvania, Maryland and Havre de Grace. Scores of warm friends will mourn his untimely end.

A SUPPLEMENT to an act requiring the Superintendent of Public Printing to advertise for proposals for supplying the State with printing and bill paper, approved April tenth Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-seven.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That hereafter the person or persons bidding for the contract for furnishing the State with paper, as provided in the act approved April tenth, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-seven, be required to execute a bond to the Commonwealth, with at least two sufficient sureties, in the sum of ten thousand dollars, conditioned for the faithful performance of the contract so allotted, which said bond shall be approved by the President Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the district or districts in which such sureties may reside; or in case of the absence or other inability of such President Judge, by the Associate Judge of the county in which such sureties may reside: Provided, That the bonds, with the sureties of the several bidders, shall be duly executed, sealed up and delivered with the proposals for furnishing said paper, and in addition to the condition above required, shall be conditioned that in case the bidder or bidders to whom the said contract shall be awarded shall neglect or refuse to accept the same at his or their bid, the said bidder or bidders, with his or their sureties aforesaid, shall be liable to the Commonwealth for the difference between the amount of the bid of the person to whom the said contract shall be awarded after such neglect or refusal; And provided further, That the Superintendent of Public Printing shall award said contract upon the same day the bids are by him opened.

ELISHA W. DAVIS,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.
JAMES L. GRAHAM,
Speaker of the Senate.

GOLD closed yesterday in New York at 144@144⅛.

THE wheat-harvest is in progess in Minnesota, being nearly a month in advance of ordinary seasons. The crop is very large, and there is an extraordinary demand for labor to secure it.

THE death of M. E. CURWEN, Esq., of Cincinnati, a prominent lawyer of Cincinnati, and widely known as the author of a valuable Digest, is announced as having occurred in London on the 11th inst.

THE price paid for the farm at Danville, on which it has been decided to erect the new Lunatic Hospital for this Commonwealth, was $42,000. Of this sum $16,000 and a little more was paid by the citizens of Danville, and the residue, or about $26,000, by the State.

A NEW ATLANTIC CABLE is to be laid within a twelve month, between New York and Brest. The preliminaries of organization, of legal authority, and for securing the necessary capital, which is estimated at $5,000,000, have just been completed and the work is to be at once taken in hand.

THE article in the last number of the Atlantic Monthly, in review of a previous paper entitled "A Modern Lettre de Cachet," which we attributed to Dr. KIRKBRIDGE, was not written by him, but by Dr. ISAAC RAY, who was formerly Superintendent of the Rhode Island Insane Asylum, but is now retired and residing at Philadelphia.

THE President's concessions as to the finality and validity of the reconstruction acts in the restored States, becomes daily more evident. He now freely announces his intention to recognize the newly chosen governments and to execute the laws to the extent of his ability. His adhesion to this position will have a favorable effect upon public affairs.

IF WE may credit the rebel Democracy, the South is now ruled by carpet-bags, or by men who carry carpet-bags. Very likely. There are few things that more emphatically mark lively go-ahead men of business than carpet-bags. The carpet-bag is an immense improvement over the slave-whip. The South is making progress like all the rest of the world.

OUR neighbors of the Pittsburgh Dispatch gratified their readers and surprised the town by issuing their lively and wide-awake journal on Monday morning in an entire new dress, of decided typographical beauty, and their columns bearing the most satisfactory internal evidence of the appreciative esteem of our citizens. We congratulate our neighbors upon their marked prosperity which is thus made apparent, and which they have fairly won by their industrious diligence, adding thereto our sincere hope that they may continue, in the future as in the past, to win golden opinions from all sort of men.

BONDS AND BONDHOLDERS.

It is known to all the world that the United States is heavily in debt, and, that this condition of affairs was brought about in consequence of the efforts needful for the suppression of the rebellion. This indebtedness rests mainly in the form of bonds given for moneys borrowed. The 7-30s, now all cancelled except some thirteen millions of dollars, were made payable, principal and interest, in coin. What remains of them will be paid in currency, unless they shall be exchanged for 5-30s before the 1st of August. The interest on the 5-20s is specifically payable in gold; in what the principal shall be paid is not stated in the bonds. Hence the current controversy as to whether they shall be paid in money or currency.

Members of Congress differ as to the understanding on this point when the bill authorizing this issue of bonds was under discussion. Of course, if suits could be brought to recover payment of these bonds, no court would listen to evidence as to the intention of different Senators or Representatives in voting for the bill. The whole matter would be determined by the construction the tribunal should put on the words used in the bonds. Such adjudication being impossible, the decision as to what payment shall be made in will ultimately be made by Congress, guided solely by the ideas of equity, prevailing among its members.

All men whose sympathies still cling to the rebellion, or to the doctrines in which it originated, are eager to adopt the construction of these contracts which will give the public creditors the least real money, impose on themselves the lightest burdens, and dishonor the Government to the largest extent. Men naturally dislike to pay for their own defeat. They will resort to the most shameful equivocations and deceits rather than do it. This explains much, but not all, the opposition to the 5-20s in coin.

For our part, we have an invincible repugnance to a currency not convertible into real money at the pleasure of the holder. A commercial revulsion may create a necessity for a temporary suspension of specie payments, but nothing short of the direst straits of a gigantic war can justify an irredeemable currency for a long period. Even then it is the imperative duty of the Gov. ernment and people to get rid of it, and return to gold and silver at the earliest possible day. How "hard money Democrats" can go about clamoring for a perpetual and increasing deluge of "paper promises to pay" is one of the mysteries of politics we confess our inability to unravel.

Among the remedies devised to extricate the nation from this bond dilemma is the authorization of new loans, for longer periods, at reduced rates of interests, and with both principal and interest payable in coin beyond all dispute. A bill to this end was passed on the last day of the session, and is waiting Presidential action upon it. Opinion seems to be divided as to the disposition he will make of it. We cannot help thinking that if this bill shall become a law it will not produce the effect intended by the originators of it.

The President is reported as taking exceptions to some features of the Funding Bill, and particularly to the omission of a clause making income derivable from these bonds liable to taxation.

It may be remarked that there are two ways of practically reaching income from bonds. One, and the direct method, is by making such income subject to taxation in like manner as other income is. The other, and indirect method, is to put the rate of interest so much lower than is paid in ordinary business transactions, as to be in effect equivalent to taxation. This latter method has this advantage that it simplifies the process, dispenses with accounts and accountants, and applies as well to foreign as to domestic bond-holders. The former, or direct method, is more satisfactory to the masses of the people, because they see that the bond-holders pay precisely as other folks, and to the same degree. Unless, however, provision is made to have the income tax deducted from the coupons upon presentation to the Treasury agents, the foreign holders necessarily escape entirely; which, perhaps they ought to do; for plausible reasons, at least, can be presented against the right of the government of one country to tax citizens of another.

Congress, it is fair to presume, thought the rate of interest was so low as to stand instead of a tax; while the President, according to rumor, prefers to attribute to the two Houses the fault of letting the bond-holders off without contributing to the support of government.

Most of the present owners of 5-20s bought them at premiums ranging from five to ten per cent. They will not be likely to exchange them except upon compulsion, for other bonds of less market value, and drawing a reduced amount of interest. What they will do, if left to pursue their own inclinations, will depend upon a close calculation of loss and gain. Confidence may be so shaken in the honor or ability of the government that the bond-holders will submit to immense sacrifices, just as men do in trying to save their household goods from conflagration; but that is a matter with which we are not now dealing.

The bond-holders failing to exchange securities promptly, could the Treasury Department, if authorized, sell enough of the new bonds to take up the old ones before the expiration of the five years option? Is there currency enough afloat and in bank reserves to do this without seriously incommoding private business?

This method failing, it is not presumable that public opinion would now endure, or Congressional wisdom sanction, a fresh issue of greenbacks sufficient to this end. The inflation inseparable from that measure would unsettle all business calculations, and might bring on a total collapse of that immense fabric of credit which covers the whole country.

If in neither of these ways the Government could get the requisite currency to pay off the 5-20s within five years of their date the holders would retain them until the expiration of the full term of twenty years. Long enough before that time specie payments will be resumed, in which event the bond-holders will get money instead of currency in extinguishment of their demands.

But, who are the bond-holders — the "bloated bond-holders," and the "bond-barons," whom it is fashinable among the Democrats to decry? Under the main aspect of the case, it does not matter who they are; and it is an insult to every right-minded man's sense of justice to ask who they are. Equity does not let her scales turn this way or that, according to the financial or social standing of contestants before her. She demands to know only the right or wrong of the matter, and makes her balances vibrate only as justice inclines. Whether a man is poor or rich is immaterial before a just tribunal. Rich and poor there stand on equal ground; the poor confident he will not suffer wrong because of his poverty; the rich sure he will not be defrauded because he is opulent. No one but an ingrained scoundrel allows the wealth or poverty of a claimant to influence his determination of a cause, no matter whether he acts as judge, juror or voter.

Many Government bonds are held by National Banks and by individual capitalists. Many, too, are held by Savings Banks and by Life and Fire Insurance Companies. Hundreds of thousands of dollars are so held in this city, and in all other cities. These bonds are held in trust fer poor men and women who have deposited the scant savings of hard toil as a provision against sickness and old age; or as security that when husbands and fathers die the policies upon their lives will be paid to the otherwise destitute widows and orphans; or, as the guaranty that if poor men's houses burn down they will recover insurances, which will help put other roofs over the heads of their households.

Millions of bonds are held in trust by executors and administrators for widows and orphans who would be without friend or helper if this support should be swept away. Clergymen, physicians, clerks, mechanics, laborers, and other classes of small means, all over the country, have invested their little gains in Government bonds. To these individuals it is a very serious matter how the question of paying these securities shall be decided.

Irrespective of the question, Who are the bond-holders? this issue ought to be determined without clamor, without passion, and without prejudice, according to the demands of impartial justice, and actuated by a nice sense of honor.

JUDGE THURMAN, of Ohio, was one of the speakers at the ratification meeting of the West Virginia rebel Democracy, at Grafton, last week. Indulging in his characteristic brag, as to the result of the Presidential election, he predicted that the Republicans would then desire to surrender. The Judge proceeded:

"And that will be a matter for you to consider—whether you will require an unconditional surrender or allow them to march out with the honors of war. [Cries of "Unconditional!" "Shoot every last one of them!" "Let them hang!" "Hang them every one!"]

This is a very fair illustration of the K. K. K. spirit which now fires the reassured rebel heart. They find in the New York platform and nominations the license to shoot and hang the friends of the Union with the same impunity as in the first rebellion which the Democracy visited upon the country. The same old rebel yell of murderous hate welcomes the new summons to rapine and murder, and the same old rebel policy, of the extermination of the friends of the Union, is to be inaugurated with the success of the BLAIR ticket throughout the South.

THE INCENDIARY violence of the BLAIR programme of anarchy and armed revolution, endorsed as it is by the Democratic party, has driven gold up to 144, with a corresponding depreciation of the paper currency, the value of which depends entirely on the popular confidence that it will ultimately be redeemed in specie. Here is already a positive loss of nearly three per cent., about twenty millions of dollars, to the people holding this currency. The dimunition in the purchasing value of a paper dollar will soon be seen in the advanced prices asked for all articles of prime necessity for the consumption of the people. And the BLAIR party have the cheek to charge this depreciation of our paper money, which is solely due to their incendiary threats, as the consequence of the salutary precautions which their menaces have required Congress to take for the preservation of the public peace.

ON THE 15th of August, the Republicans of this city will select a candidate for Mayor. They will not do this through the intervention of the ordinary delegate Convention, but by a direct vote of the members of the party. Under this plan no fault can be found with those who are designated as managers, if the nomination made shall prove to be either bad or unacceptable. The blame will attach to those Republicans who shall be so indifferent to their welfare as not to take the trouble of attending the primary elections, or, attending them, fail to make a wise choice. We earnestly press this matter upon the consideration of all who are interested in it.

IT IS probable that South Carolina will this year follow her invariable practice in former Presidential elections, and choose her Electors by a vote of the Legislature. It is also possible that others of the restored States may adopt the same method. We were never partial to this mode of creating the Electoral Colleges, notwithstanding the long line of Democratic precedent in its favor in South Carolina.

THIS new act amending the Bankrupt Law, extends the operation of the fifty per cent. clause to Jan. 1, 1869. The extension was demanded by the new Southern States, in which the machinery of the law has but little more than fairly begun its operations, and the claim has been very justly and properly admitted.

THE ESSENTIAL RELATION OF SCIENCE TO LABOR.

In some observations yesterday upon the comparative decline of English manufactures, in the great industrial competitions of the world, we made an incidental allusion to the most influential cause of the greater prosperity of Productive Art upon the European continent. Applied Science affords the true explanation of French and German superiority, and the results which to-day humble the national pride of English manufacturers are but the natural, legitimate sequence of their reliance upon the potencies of mere capital and labor, unaided by the direction of an instructed and discriminating intelligence.

Knowledge is power, but only in a limited sense. To clothe it with the largest practical value, in the material development of the productive resources of a people, it must be utilized, by the precision of its researches, by a clear comprehension of the material needs of humanity, and by the discriminating application of such scientific deductions as may be established in the progress of invention and practical analysis. Mere knowledge, if not popularized, may fill museums and cabinets, swell encyclopedias, and win the profound homage of the learned, but, unless it be faithfully disseminated and commingled with the great mass of national information, becoming a part of the utilized, intellectual wealth of an industrious people, and constituting an active element for the constant and universal service of its material necessities, such knowledge avails nothing in the promotion of national prosperity, or in the world-wide rivalry of productive art. Knowledge is only power in these latter days of practical humanity, in the proportion that it shall be creative, productive and exhibiting tangible fruit. The nineteenth century has brought in the era of works. Science was ever admirable, but it has come now to be valued only as it arms a people for resistless war, or elevates its own relative subserviency to the material necessities of the peaceful world. As the brain and the hand shall labor together in the service of society; as the Operative and the Savant shall march side by side in the creation of national wealth—and that wealth can only be created by human industry more or less intelligently guided—the real, permanent and decisive criterion is presented for estimating the relative power and influence of nations.

In their clear perception of these truths—so simple and obvious that even their statement seems needless—and in their acceptance for practical ends, is disclosed the true secret of Continental success in the rivalry of national industries. England has invented; France and Belgium, Germany and Switzerland have developed, improved and utilized. English science eliminates principles; the Continental rivalry applies them directly to the service of productive art. The broad field of scientific knowledge is completely familiar to English philosophers, but remains an unknown land to the millions of British workmen. Abounding in capital, and her entire island a hive swarming with docile, eager and inexpensive labor, with mineral resources unmatched in any Continental domain, and with a commerce which bears the English flag first and farthest on all the waters of the globe, Great Britain entered, three-fourths of a century since, upon a career of manufacturing industry which was unchecked by competition, and which rapidly advanced that empire to the undisputed control of every market at home and abroad. For a half century, she held this position without a rival, but we see that she has lost it to-day and that the seat of intelligent industry has been transferred beyond the Channel. She has lost it, because the continental nations have come to surpass her in the application of scientific knowledge to the multiform departments of production. The English citizen is as ever industrious and faithful, but the French or German operatives stand far in advance of him, in their knowledge of scientific principles, and in the fidelity and constancy with which these are applied to the processes of their daily employment. The English mechanic accepts so much of science as may be requisite to qualify him to fill the measure of the daily labor which yields his daily wages. Beyond that, he has no ambition, nor has he yet been offered the opportunities for advancement. He has not yet been taught the inestimable value, of that connection between the science of the cultivated brain and the cunning of the practised hand, which are now giving to the continental artizan conspicuously the lead in the manufacturing industry of nations. Go to a French workshop, like that of SCHNEIDER, at Creuzot, and of all the army of workmen employed in every department of the manufacture of marine engines, there is not one who cannot make complete drawings for every part of the work. The English Islands can present no such instance of educated and scientific skill. Throughout France, Prussia, Belgium, Germany and Switzerland, the visitor at all the great centres of manufacture, whether in the metals, in chemistry, in the textile fabrics or in mining, is astonished to discover that a large per centage, of the common workmen whom he sees, have been thoroughly instructed by a two, three or five years' course of study in the public Scientific Schools, and that their daily labor becomes not only skillful but successful, because it comprehends and can explain results by principles, and is always intelligently guided, toward the largest and highest product, by the applied science which the education of the workman has made his highest qualification for productive labor, and which bears its legitimate fruit in the superior value of the product itself.

It is needless, in this connection, to recapitulate the statistics of Scientific Popular Instruction among the Continental nations, as compared with the operative classes of England. It is enough to say that this instruction has been systematically recognized as of national duty or policy on one side of the Channel, and as generally neglected on the other. The natural consequence is that the superior repute of English manufactures has given place in the world's markets to the greater merit of the foreign productions, and the decline, not only comparative, but in some respects real, of British industry, has awakened among her statesmen and thinkers a feeling of profound alarm. They see clearly, not only the danger, but its cause and its cure, and the most direct, speediest and most effective method of engrafting Science upon Labor, and thereby elevating the English operative classes into the higher plane of their Continental rivals, is a question which engages, at this moment, the closest attention of leading English minds.

The facts to which we have alluded, and the inferences which they warrant, touching the vital importance of Applied Science to the successful competitions of Labor, have a powerful bearing upon the solid, permanent interests and the future welfare of Americans as a manufacturing people. In that relation, we shall recur to this topic again.

THE Pennsylvania Military Academy, at Chester, under the accomplished superintendence of Col. THEODORE HYATT, with a large and varied staff of instruction, has, we are gratified to learn, become a fixed and prosperous institution of the State. Its marked success during the past year affords a flattering augury for the future, and most deservedly. A military, scientific and classical education is here given to our own youth, and within our own borders, at a moderate cost, and we therefore commend this Academy to the kindly regards of all our readers withiu the Commonwealth.

THE BOLTING GERMAN DEMOCRACY.

Another Broadside Against Seymour, Blair and Revolution—Plain Talk from a "free-born Dutchman"—Something for every German to Read.

We printed, a few days since, the significant and powerful article with which the Zanesville Germania, always heretofore a Democratic journal, repudiated the SEYMOUR and BLAIR ticket and platform, as an infamous fraud upon the free-born German Democrats of the North. For this exercise of his freedom of opinion, the editor of that journal was so grossly assailed by a K. K. K. print at Zanesville, that he retorts with the following card in the Courier. It affords good evidence that neither "the Dutchmen of Muskingum" or elsewhere are to be "hitched to the chariots" of SEYMOUR and BLAIR. Read:

The Muskingum county Democracy blames our brother editor, Mr. Irvine, of the Signal, very much, for not having given us better lessons in the K. K. K. Democracy, and kept us under better control in political views, in order that the Germania might hitch the Dutchmen of Muskingum to the chariot of Seymour, and the old and new Democratic genius Mr. F. P. Blair. We beg the Democrats to excuse Mr. Irvine very much, because he was absent when we cut loose from the New York Company, not from the principles of real Union Democracy, and to excuse the editor and candidate, because we are a free born Dutchman, and have imbibed these sacred principles of philosophy, that a man as a being divinely gifted with reason, intellect and free will, should make use of the same in all questions, arising either in politics, religion or science, and that he should search into all, judge impartially, and hold the best, that if his action should be a reasonable and human one, (artis humanus rationabilis) he is bound to judge for himself, and that he not blindly follow others, or the great crowd.

Reason teaches us that parties, as human societies, are liable to err, and experience and history teaches us that these, especially at an age of much dishonesty and corruption, are to be taken very carefully, and their candidates closely scrutinized (?) after their former history.

To the objection of inconsistancy which the Democrats throw up against us, we beg leave to say:

If the Democrats wish a man always to stick to the party he hitherto belonged to, they might have the consistency to sweep first before their own door, and kick out their repeatedly fence jumping candidate for Vice President, F. Blair, and many other leading Democrats, refugees from the Republican party. The Democrats will hold us, therefore, excused of inconsistency.

We are considered faithless, a traitor to party and principles. In this regard we ask the Democracy:

1st. Whether they permit us the exercise of an independent judgment, or whether they want party slaves?

2d. Whether a man is not bound to leave a company which he sees is getting corrupt or leading into bad ways, and we ask:

3d. Whether the Democratic party proved itself at the New York Convention converted or eradicated from the secesh element—or whether this element was not there in full force and glory, as Gov. Wise announced at Richmond: "The Fourth of July in New York is the day which would gain the friends that the rebellion could not gain?" and we ask:

4th. Whether it is not the right kind of traitorship, to leave the flag hoisted by Forrest, the guerrilla General, by Vallandigham and Mr. Wash M'Lean, and to join the army of Grant, who is proclaimed by history the Saviour of the American Republic?

Whether it is treacherous or mean to confide in that patriotic, upright, straightforward and honest minded General whose hands to kiss every child thought itself happy, at the close of the war—or to trust the future of the country to those in connection or co-operation with our enemies? To trust to the candidates that desire "peace," or to the one who thirsts for "war?"

To the commonly used Democratic charge of bribery we simply request the Democracy, not to judge us by themselves, because their delegates got their pockets filled at New York and sold themselves. (See La Crosse Democrat, and Cincinnati Enquirer of 5th and 6th of July.)

We believe it requires no bribery for a war Democrat as we always considered ourselves, to repudiate that convention. Was General Sherman suddenly bribed because he, a Democrat, declared for Grant against the New York ticket, or is Chase bribed because he like we declares, there was no hope for the victory of the Democrat ticket. It is no miracle nor does it require bribery, if an honest thinking Democrat prefers Grant with Union Democratic principles to a man who does not enjoy the confidence of the land. These are our political principles which we think are settled enough, Mr. Irvine: of course not settled as the wool-died Democrats used to say: "My father or grandfather was a Democrat. I am a Democrat, have been one and with the hope of the Lord shall be one all my life time." Our principle is: Leave the party if you think it is wrong and go to the party which aims at right; never pledge yourself to any party, because it may fail.

Such are the principles of a free man and not of a blind partizan or of one who is under obligation or pledged to a party.

The interest we earned from the free expression of our upright view on the New York ticket is: Persecution from rustics, prospects of a Seymour mob and the loss of subscribers, of those who not relying upon their own mind were afraid of learning different views, and of being lifted above their "Westbote or Volksfriend."

Here it is proper to remark that Republicans are more patriotic and penetrated by their principles so as to give a generous support to the newspapers, these great instruments for the cultivation of the intelligence of the people, than the Democrats.

We confess ourselves the Germania never attempted to work for a party; never put up a party ticket and never spoke in a passionable tone of the parties. It seems the Democrats think that only such papers have effect which make it their profession to shoot with the poisonous arrows of misrepresentations, slanders and personal attacks. We also confess and believe, that the names of Seymour and Blair on the Democratic ticket will work far more powerfully to the defeat of the Democrats than our humble paper, the Germania. Sapentiæ sat.

C. AGNOLE,
Editor Germania.

Taxables in the City—Representation in Common Council.

Returns from all but two wards, the Thirteenth and Fourteenth, of the number of taxable inhabitants were received at the Controller's office last evening. All will be received in time for the Committee having the matter in hand to determine the number of representatives in Common Council to which each ward is entitled, and report to the adjourned meeting of Councils on Friday. Following are the returns so far received:

Wards.	Taxables
First	1,058
Second	1,162
Third, late Tenth	954
Fourth	923
Fifth, late Third	1,022
Sixth, late Eighth	1,411
Seventh, late first precinct Sixth	1,000
Eighth, late second precinct Sixth	948
Ninth, late first precinct Fifth	662
Tenth, late second precinct Fifth	1,067
Eleventh, late Seventh	915
Twelfth, late Ninth	1,638
Thirteenth, late Fifth	—
Fourteenth, late Oakland	—
Fifteenth, late first precinct Lawrenceville	1,200
Sixteenth, late Bloomfield	410
Seventeenth, late second precinct Lawrenceville	781
Eighteenth, late lower part of Collins	209
Nineteenth, center of Collins	433
Twentieth, center of Liberty	497
Twenty-first, late part of Collins	354
Twenty-second, part of Liberty and Peebles	276
Twenty-third, late Peebles	264

—From the above figures, and estimating the two districts not yet heard from to each have three hundred taxables, we have a total of 16,735 taxables in the city, which, according to a rough calculation we have made, will give the following representation in Common Council:

Wards.		Wards.
First	4	Thirteenth	1
Second	4	Fourteenth	1
Third	3	Fifteenth	4
Fourth	4	Sixteenth	1
Fifth	4	Seventeenth	3
Sixth	1	Eighteenth	1
Seventh	3	Nineteenth	1
Eighth	3	Twentieth	1
Ninth	2	Twenty-first	1
Tenth	4	Twenty-second	1
Eleventh	3	Twenty-third	1
Twelfth	6

The number of Councilmen is fixed by law at sixty, and the ratio from the figures received and estimates is one councilman to two hundred and seventy-nine taxables. Three of the wards have returned a less number, but the consolidation act provides that each district shall have at least one representative in Common Council.

—G. W. Childs, of the Philadelphia Ledger, has contributed $1,000 to the relief of the sufferers by the recent flood at Baltimore and vicinity.

IS YOUR DISEASE RHEUMATISM?

Many persons, supposing they are suffering from this disease, have applied Liniments, Plasters and other Rheumatic Remedies without obtaining any relief, when in fact the cause of pain is a derangement of the Kidneys. These are small organs, but very important, and any obstruction or interference with its functions are indicated by pain in the back and loins, languor and weakness, difficulty in avoiding and unnatural color of the urine. A Diuretic should t once be resorted to.

DR. SARGENT'S

Diuretic or Backache Pills

Can be relied on for these purposes; they have a direct influence on the cells of the kidneys, assists nature in relieving them of any foreign particles, and stimulates them to a healthy and vigorous action

Dr. Sargent's Backache Pills

Contain nothing injurious, being composed of entirely vegetable remedies; they do not sicken nor gripe—on the contrary they act as a gentle tonic and restores tone to the system. They are recommended by all who who have tried them.

SWINGING ROUND THE CIRCLE.

There are fifty ways of alleviating the agonies of dyspepsia for the moment; but there is only one way to CURE it. After "swinging round the circle" of temporary palliatives the patient finds that the disease, so far from being subdued, has actually gathered strength, while he has been parleying with its symptoms.

The only way to get rid of the demon is to endow the stomach with sufficient strength to cast it out and keep it out. Impart permanent energy to the digestive organs with HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, and the object is accomplished. This powerful vegetable remedy is not a mere stimulant. It does not brace up the gastric machinery for an hour or two, leaving it, when the temporary excitement has passed off, in a worse state than before. Such is the effect of the ordinary alcoholic nostrums. They keep the stomach in a perpetual seesaw between unnatural activity and utter relaxation. Not so the BITTERS. Medicated with the finest tonic, alterative and antibilious extracts, they permanently reinforce and continuously regulate the assimilating organs. Such is the experience of tens of thousands. At this debilitating season of the year, when the solvent principle of the gastric juice is weakened by a constant drain of the animal fluids through the pores, HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is an article of prime necessity for the weak. To neglect the use of a tonic and alterative, so wonderfully efficacious, is entirely inexcusable. It simply to forego the blessing of health and vigor, and voluntarily accept feebleness and discomfort in their stead.

CURE OF FISTULA.

DR. KEYSER: I write to thank you for your kindness and scientific management of my disease, for which I called to consult you some time in January last. You will remember that I had a complication of diseases, which finally ended in a terrible fistula, which I had been advised to "let alone," on account of a harassing cough, which it was feared might fasten it on my lungs. I knew that the peculiar mode of treating diseases like mine was by a cutting operation, which, if successful at all, would naturally throw the disease upon the lungs or some other vital organ, on account of the suddenness of the cure and the immediate check to the discharge, which I believed was a salutary provision of nature to get rid of some morbid condition of the system. I feel perfectly satisfied that your method of treatment, purifying the system, and local applications to the fistulous part, must cure, if anything could, without cutting, which I find it did, and I am happy to report myself well in every particular, with sounder and better health than I have had for years. I would also add that the applications you made were almost painless, and have left me a new man, with all the energies and vigor of restored health.

Yours, gratefully, I——C——.

700 MILES

OF THE

UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD

Are now finished and in operation. 160 miles of track have been laid this spring, and the work along the whole line between the Atlantic and Pacific States is being pushed forward more rapidly than ever before. More than twenty thousand men are employed, and it is not impossible that the entire track, from Omaha to Sacramento, will be finished in 1869 instead of 1870. The means provided are ample, and all that energy, men and money can do to secure the completion of this

GREAT NATIONAL WORK,

At the earliest possible day, will be done.

The UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY receive:

I.—A GOVERNMENT GRANT of the right of way, and all necessary timber and other materials found along the line of its operations.

II.—A GOVERNMENT GRANT of 12,800 acres of land to the mile, taken in alternate sections on each side of its road. This is an absolute donation, and will be a source of large revenue in the future.

III.—A GOVERNMENT GRANT of United States Thirty-year Bonds, amounting to from $16,000 to $48,000 per mile, according to the difficulties to be surmounted on the various sections to be built. The Government takes a second mortgage as security, and it is expected that not only the interest, but the principal amount may be paid in services rendered by the Company in transporting troops, mails, &c. The interest is now much more than paid in this way, besides securing a great saving in time and money to the Government.

IV.—A GOVERNMENT GRANT of the right to issue its own FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS, to aid in building the road, to the same amount as the U. S. Bonds, issued for the same purpose, and no more. The Government permits the Trustees for the First Mortgage Bondholders to deliver the Bonds to the Company only as the road is completed, and after it has been examined by United States Commissioners and pronounced to be in all respects a first-class Railroad, laid with a heavy T rail, and completely supplied with depots, stations, turnouts, carshops, locomotives, cars, &c.

V.—A CAPITAL STOCK SUBSCRIPTION from the stockholders, of which OVER EIGHT MILLION DOLLARS have been paid in upon the work already done, and which will be increased as the wants of the Company require.

VI.—NET CASH EARNINGS on its Way Business, that already amount to MORE THAN THE INTEREST on the First Mortgage Bonds. These earnings are no indication of the vast through traffic that must follow the opening of the line to the Pacific, but they certainly prove that upon such a property, costing nearly three times their amount, ARE SECURE BEYOND ANY CONTINGENCY.

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS

The Union Pacific Bonds run thirty years, are for $1,000 each, and have coupons attached. They bear annual interest, payable on the first days of January and July, at the Company's Office, in the City of New York, at the rate of six per cent. in gold. The Principal is payable in gold at maturity. The price is 102, and at the present rate of gold, they pay a liberal income on their cost.

The Company believe that these Bonds, at the present rate, are the cheapest in the market, and reserve the right to advance the price at any time.

Subscriptions will be received in Pittsburgh by

JAMES T. BRADY & Co., corner of Wood and Fourth Streets;
HART, CAUGHEY & Co., corner of Wood and Third Streets;
S. McCLEAN & CO., 75 Fourth Street;
PH. R. MERTZ, corner 5th and Wood Sts.;
ROBINSON BROS., 78 Fourth street;

AND IN NEW YORK

At the Company's Office, No. 20 Nassau Street, and by

JOHN J. CISCO & SON, Bankers, No. 59 Wall Street, and by the Company's advertised agents throughout the United States.

Remittances should be made in drafts or other funds par in New York, and the Bonds will be sent free of charge by return express. Parties subscribing through local agents, will look to them for their safe delivery.

A PAMPHLET AND MAP FOR 1868 has just been published by the Company, giving fuller information than is possible in an advertisement, respecting the Progress of the Work, the Resources of the Country traversed by the Road, the Means for Construction, and the Value of the Bonds, which will be sent free on application at the Company's offices, or to any of the advertised agents.

JOHN J. CISCO, Treasurer,

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, TUESDAY, July 28, 1868.

—In all the seaboard markets money continues extremely abundant; the banks in New York are not able to find employment for their balances on call at better figures than 3 to 4 per cent On discounts there is less dene at the minimum of six per cent., and on prime names having three or four months to run is generally seven per cent. In Philadelphia and Boston the case is but little different. The New York Evening Post says of the railway share market:

"The strength of prices appears to be attributable rather to the persistent support of the wealthy cliques controlling the leading stocks, than to any special intrinsic causes in the roads themselves. While it is true that the earnings of the railways are large, and that the expected abundant harvest warrant the promise of large railroad freights in the latter months of the year, yet is beleived that these earnings, present and prospective, have been discounted in the peesent high prices; and that should the cliques, by reason of an active money market, be forced to unburden any considerable portion of their load, a sharp and sudden decline would follow."

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, TUESDAY, July 28, 1868.

There is but little that is new or really important to be said about the markets in a general way. Compared with the past two or three weeks, there is rather more activity, and while the volume of business, in the aggregate, is probably a little larger, there is still plenty of room for improvement. As noted in our last report, there seems to be a general inclination to hold back to await later, more extended and reliable intelligence in regard to the result of the harvest, and once this has been pretty well ascertained, we may look for better times.

BUTTER—There is a good demand for prime fresh Butter in small packages, with sales at 28 to 30c. In large packages, however, it goes off very slowly, as retailers want to keep just as little on hand as possible.

EGGS—Dull, with a supply somewhat in excess of the demand; we continue to quote at 20 to 21c.

CHEESE—Is unchanged at 13 to 14 for Western Reserve and Hamburg: 15 to 16 for Ohio Factory, and 18 to 20 for Sweitzer, as to quality.

HAY—Was in better supply in the Allegheny market to-day, but prices are still maintained; weighmaster McNulty reports sales of 39 loads new at $25 to $31 per ton.

GRAIN—Wheat is without quotable change—$2,20 to $2,25, on track and in elevator, with small lots reported at $2,10 to $2,15. Oats very firm and somewhat excited: sales reported at 83 to 85c. Corn is quiet but steady at $1,05 to $1,10 for mixed to prime Yellow. Rye is dull and nominal at $1,40 to $1,45. In regard to Barley, there is nothing doing, as yet, and no established prices have, as yet, been made. We are cognizant of $1,50 having been offered for four thousand bushels of prime Canada Barley, to arrive. The reports in regard to the crop in this vicinity are somewhat conflicting, though it is generally believed that it will be an average one.

POTATOES—Are coming to hand to arrive more freely, and under the influence of the recent rains, we expect to see much larger shipments and lower prices; we now quote at $5 to $5,25 per bbl.

GREEN APPLES—Are in good supply, and may be quoted dull at $4 to $5 per bbl, as to quality.

PROVISIONS—Bacon is steady, with a fair jobbing demand at 13¾ to 13¾c for Shoulders; 16 to 16½c for Ribbed, and 18 to 18½c for Clear Sides, and 20½ to 21c for Sugar Cured Hams. Lard, 18½ to 18½c. Mess Pork, $28,50 to $29. Dried Beef, 21 to 21½c.

LARD OIL—Is unchanged at $1,15 for No. 1, and $1,40 for No. 1.

SEEDS—Flaxseed could probably be sold at $2, or something over, but there is none in market, nor is it likely that there will be until the new crop arrives. No movement in Clover or Timothy Seeds.

SALT—Is dull and nominally unchanged at $1,75 to $1,80 to the trade, and $2 for small lots in store.

FLOUR—There are no new features in the Flour market worthy of notice. We continue to quote Spring Wheat $10 to $11, the latter figure for choice Minnesota; Winter Wheat at $10,75 to $11,50, and fancy brands at $13 to $14. Rye Flour, $8,50 to $8,75.

PIG LEAD—Sales at 10½c.

LIME—Sales at $2 per bbl.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, TUESDAY, July 28, 1868.

CRUDE—The Crude market was rather more active to-day, the reported sales being larger than for several days previous, reaching over ten thousand barrels, and with a firmer feeling, prices, compared with yesterday, ruled a shade higher. For instance, there were several sales for immediate delivery, at 14c, against 13¾c yesterday; for future months, however, there is no change worthy of special notice. Sale of 3,000 bbls, 1,000 each for October, November and December, at 14c; 1,000, spot, at 14c; 1,000, seller, next week, at 14c; 1,000 same option and same delivery, same price; 2,000, seller's option, all year, at 12½c; 1,000, spot, at 13¾c, and 500 at 13¾c; also, 1,000 bbls for August, at $5.40, on cars at Venango city, and 2,500 at $5,40, on cars at Oil City.

REFINED—The market for refined oil was also a shade stronger to-day, and while the sales, in the aggregate, were not unusually large, the demand seemed to be more active, and, if anything, prices ruled a shade higher. There were two sales of 500 each for July at 34c; 1,000 for last half of August at 34¾c; 500 for same delivery, seller's option, at 34½c, and 1,500, 500 each for September, October and November, at 34¾c. It is said that it is difficult to find first-class buyers for the late months; and, we suppose, that if it was not for this obstacle, the sales for future delivery would be considerably larger. Refiners are more careful about the buyer than formerly; many of them would rather sell for a fraction less to a good reliable buyer, and, in this, we think, they act wisely.

"WASTE NOT—WANT NOT."

BY PERCEVAL BECKETT, M. E.

It is a noted fact everywhere that it is humanity to squander whatever we have in abundance, and often to the deterioration of our possessions and also to our own personal hurt. In districts that abound largely in minerals and coal, this fact is thoroughly exemplified; often materials or fuel are wasted that would gladden the hearts of less fortunate individuals, and also would it, properly used or converted, prove a considerable source of revenue.

In a district like Pittsburgh, with its vast treasures of coal, ironstones, etc., we are not so apt to take care of our black diamonds as if we were not so bountifully provided; we are liable to waste and throw away some of the poorer qualities of our mineral wealth, on the supposition that our resources are inexhaustible. Great Britain can tell, and now is telling, a sorrowful tale of her now waning treasures of coal and ironstone hitherto thought imperishable. We ought to profit by the lesson, and although our coal region will supply amply all our own and the next generation's need, yet we should not be selfish, but think of generations yet to come who have as much right to the treasures as we have.

It has often been a wonder with the iron manufacturers, not only here but also in Great Britain, how it is that French, Belgian and German firms can produce iron of a first-class quality and comparatively at a low cost, since the principal of the coal in these countries is of poor quality and abounds in dirt and sulphur. Some people consider that the recompense paid to their employés must be very slight in comparison with the pay of other countries, but this is a mistake. Wages paid to iron workers all through the world are very much alike, taking everything into consideration. If this be the case, how is it that good iron or steel can be made so cheap, and yet leave a decent marginal profit to the proprietor? It is this, these countries treasure and take care of their coal, and look upon it as fuel, every particle to be used, none to be wasted. Their coal is of an awful bad quality, full of dirt and bat, containing not only a large per centage of alumina but also a large per centage of sulphur, which latter article, as every one is aware deteriorates tremendously iron. To get rid of these co parts of the fuel is the aim of every one. The process of coking if properly conducted and arranged, will diminish largely the per centage, but if coke is made everywhere as it is manufactured here, I am afraid foreign iron could not boast much supremacy, as much coke in this neighborhood is as bad, may be worse, than raw coal. If we were to examine the henched Belgian coke, we would find it of a beautiful grey color, perfectly uniform and free from those suspicious dark outlines or patches so observant here, and instead of being in small pieces it is in compact masses, but yet perfectly good and free from noxious qualities. We would be led upon observation to imagine that the coal used must be, not only highly bituminous, but also perfectly free from sulphur or bat. This is not so; their coal is the most wretched quality even seen, filled with dirt, snails and highly impregnated with sulphur; in fact, of such a quality that the denizens of Pittsburgh would imagine such coal comparatively useless, and yet even they only use even the worst quality of the worst viz, slack and debris, and the grand secret is that they employ proper machinery, which washes the coal, removes all bat or horse-back, and also desulphurises the fuel. After this operation the fuel is taken and deposited in coke ovens of a modern construction and cokes out the beautiful fuel there so highly prized. We might resemble the operation to feeding coal dust in at one end of a machine and good coke coming out at the other, and such coke that we cannot here produce from our best coal, even when burnt in our splendid and well designed coal-wasters (beg pardon, coke ovens.

This is what I want to call the attention of all our iron-masters and coal proprietors to, i. e., that good coke or blast furnace fuel can be made from what we now disregard as useless and throw away. It is futile for me to call the attention of our iron manufacturers to the need of good coke in the manufacture of iron, as it is of course obvious to all. I shall be happy to give any particulars of the process to any one desirous to aid in staying this fearful waste of good and useful fuel.

Shortly I am about to treat upon "smoke combustion," and hope to give a few hints which may have a tendency to remove this noxious cloud of smoke, at present overwhelming our well-known city.

Allegheny City, July 24, 1868.

The Pest of Flies—A Hard Story.

(From the Peoria Transcript, July 22.)

We heard of a story, yesterday, about the insects known as June flies, which are seen in myriads near the river, or wherever there is a body of water. Last Saturday night these flies came from the river in countless numbers, and, attracted by the lamp at the office of the Peoria bridge, flew to that locality, and fell dead there by millions, until a space three feet long and as many wide, was piled with them to the height of the door knob, about three feet from the floor. On Sunday morning the bridge tenders procured wheelbarrows and carted them away fifteen barrows full of the mass of dead insects and threw them into the river. As the flies died and fell, they became matted together, until a barrow full made a good load.

We refused to believe this story when told, but were solemnly assured by six gentlemen who were witnesses, that it is a fact. The insects flew in huge swarms, and the mass of dead ones was formed, which occupied about an hour and a half, between nine and half past ten at night. Those of our readers who refuse to believe the story are referred to the bridge-tenders and employes for verification.

Another story, much more probable, is told of some person of genius, who opened a street lamp in the lower part of the city, that same evening, and in a short time the lamp was nearly filled with insects, attracted thither by the light.

YALE COLLEGE.—The Commencement of this time-honored institution took place on Thursday, when 107 students were graduated from the academical department. Among these gentlemen are to be found the names of Algernon S. Biddle, of Philadelphia; Edwin G. Bradford, Wilmington, Del.; George Eastburn, Lahaska, Pa.; Thos. W. Pearce, West Chester, Pa.; and William Parsons, Lockhaven, Pa. The following honorary degrees were also conferred: Doctor of Laws—Charles J. McCurdy, of Lynn, Conn.; Charles J. CLIPPINGS.

THE cost of each pupil in the public schools of Boston has greatly increased in the last four years. The statistics on this subject show that for the year ending May, 1864, the cost of each scholar was $18.82; for the following year, $23.75; for the next year, $28.53; for the last year, $27.90, and the estimate for the current year is $34.36.

THE Jamestown Journal tells of a gawky who saw for the first time a school girl going through some of her gymnastic exercises for the amusement of the little ones at home. After gazing at her with looks of interest and commiseration for a while he asked a boy near by "if that gal had fits?" "No," replied the lad contemptuously, "that's gymnastics." "Oh, 'tis hey, said Verdant, "how long has she had 'em."

THE Fall River Times says one of the wealthiest families in Somerset, Mass., owning two farms, not succeeding in getting any one to mow the grass ordered a mowing machine from Boston, and when it arrived the wife of one of the sons put the machine together, mounted the seat, drove into the meadow and cut four acres of grass. On Tuesday she cut about five acres, and it is said by judges it was cut as well as any man could cut it.

DURING the last five years the benefactions to American literary institutions have reached the prodigious sum of $15,212,500, of which colleges have received $8,858,000; theological seminaries, 1,359,500, and societies $540,000, the remainder going to various educational institutions. Amherst College has received $350,000, Yale $750,000, Tuft's College, $500,000, Brown's University $160,000. Williams College receives only $80,000. The Boston Society of Natural History and the Boston Institute of Technology have each recived $270,000.

THE best table kept at any private house in Paris is that of Prince Napoleon, who is one of the greatest gourmets in Paris, and who often spends three hours and longer at the dinner table. He employs six cooks, and spends annually 200,000 francs for culinary purposes. The Emperor is the very reverse of him in this respect. He eats very little, and confines his whole dinner, generally, to a piece of roast beef and a few fried potatoes. The Empress eats more ice cream than anything else, although her physicians have told her time and again that she must abstain from it entirely.

NARROW ESCAPE.—Wednesday evening last before dark, as Extra train number twenty was passing Steamburg, ten and a half miles from Salamanca, the Engineer saw a small child lying upon the track. The train was at once slackened, and the fireman went out upon the engine, thinking he could catch it before being struck; but there being no steps on the pilot he could not reach it. The pilot struck the child, throwing it down an enbankment, a distance of twelve feet, and strange to say, it was uninjured except a slight bruise on the check, although badly frightened.—Meadville Republican.

ANOTHER winter of starvation and distress seems to be in store for the poor people of East Prussia. A long-continued drought has much reduced the prospects of a good crop, and even a partial failure in this respect will lead to a renewal of last winter's horrors. The East Prussians are filled with the utmost gratitude toward the United States. Next to Germany, North America has sent them more liberal assistance in their distress than any other country in the world. France and Russia did almost nothing for them. The comparatively largest contribution in money came from San Francisco.

AN ascent of part of Mont Blanc lately led to a deplorable accident. A foreign family had left Chamounix for the Grand Mulets, under the direction of the guide Edouard Simon. On arriving at the Pierre-à l'Echelle, situated at the upper part of the Glacier des Bossons, the party was surprised by a fall of stones from the Aiguille du Midi. They were all in great peril, but the guide, regardless of himself, rushed forward and sought out for them a shelter under some jutting rocks, and had just placed the last person in security, when a large block struck the unfortunate man on the head and hurled him into a crevice adjoining. The others shortly after returned to the village, and the next day the body of the guide was found dreadfully crushed, and brought back to his house, accompanied by the whole population.

The General smiled when he read the notice and put it in his pocket book.

SAFETY FIRE JACKET.

SECURITY AND COMFORT FOR THE TRAVELING COMMUNITY.

J. B. HARRIS' SAFETY FIRE JACKET,

Car Heater and Moderator,

For SMOKE AND HOT AIR FLUES, dispensing with the use of Stoves and Fires in or about the Passenger or Baggage Cars, with the attachment to graduate the heat to any temperature that may be desired without the possibility of firing the car or cargo to which the Jacket may be attached.

Having obtained of the United States Letters Patent for a Safety Jacket which is warranted to resist the most intense heat that may be applied to it in the position and purpose for which it is intended. It is a sure protection from accidents by fire, originating from defective flues, or where iron pipes are used as conductors for smoke or heat. It is applicable to all piping that may become overheated, and is warranted to give perfect satisfaction where wood or other combustible material may be placed in close proximity thereto. I am now ready to apply my invention to stores, dwellings, factories, ships, steamboats, railroad cars, &c., wherever pipes as conductors are made dangerous by being overheated and security desired. I will sell, on application, rights to manufacture or to use the above invention; also, territorial rights, to such as may wish to engage in selling privileges, either by State or county.

Pike Street is being repaired.

In Town—The distinguished orator and divine, Rev. Bishop Simpson.

Dull.—Police news yesterday. Good for the citizens Bad for the magistrates.

An Improvement.—Canal street, which is very much out of repair, is being put in order once more.

Paving.—The paving on Second street, east of the Birmingham bridge, will be completed to-day.

New Bell.—The new school house in Lawrenceville will have a bell connected with the fire alarm telegraph.

The County Republican Executive Committee meet at City Hall, Republican Headquarters, at three P. M. to-day.

New Gate—Enclosing the yard of the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad at the Federal street station.

The Latest.—A tonsorial establishment about to be established in our city under the proprietorship of lady artistes.

Unhealthy.—Bathing in the river during the "dog days" is said to be unhealthy, although it is a very common practice.

Passed Through—Hon. Schuyler Colfax, on his way home from Washington yesterday at noon. Took dinner at Union Hotel.

Foreign Correspondence.—On our first page of to-day's paper will be found another very interesting foreign letter from Rev. King, of Allegheny.

Assault.—John Hughes made information before the Mayor yesterday charging James Creely with assault. A warrant was issued for his arrest.

Caved In.—The attention of the wharf master is called to the fact that the sewer at the foot of Ross street is caved in for a distance of thirty feet.

Rare Chance to Make Money.—We would call attention of parties wishing to make money to an advertisement in to-day's paper under the above head.

A little more energy in grading the sidewalk on the upper portion of Second street will be appreciated by the hundreds of artizans who pass that way daily.

Arrived.—Hard cucumbers, half ripe melons and sour, green apples. Persons making their acquaintance will also be introduced to the cholera, which accompanies them.

To be Graded.—The work of grading Liberty street, eleven squares of which, beginning at Carson street thence eastward, are under contract, was commenced yesterday.

False Alarm.—An alarm of fire was received at the Central Office from Box 71, in the Seventeenth ward, about half-past eleven o'clock last night, but is proved to be a false one.

Relaying Track.—The Pennsylvania Railroad Company are relaying the track on a portion of Liberty street, which would indicate that they do not expect to vacate that thoroughfare.

Street Commissioner M'Faden designs attaching a pipe to the spring on Second street, in the Sixth ward, so that the water can be more conveniently obtained by those living in the vicinity.

Whipped Her Children.—Mary Evans alleges that Mrs. Banan beat and abused two of her children without cause or provocation. Alderman Strain issued a warrant for the arrest of the accused.

Arrangements are in progress for the formation of a Central Grant and Colfax Club, to be composed of two members from each of the district clubs. The first meeting for organization will be held on Saturday evening of next week.

Break Down.—Yesterday morning while returning from the fire at Wood's Run, the truck of the Columbia Hook and Ladder Company broke an axle, near the passenger car stables in the Sixth ward, Allegheny. This will throw it out of service for a few days.

Alleged False Pretence.—Bridget Hough made information yesterday before Alderman Strain, against Mr. Roxbury for false pretence. The prosecutrix alleges that the defendant obtained by false representations groceries from her to the amount of $12.50. A warrant was issued.

Arrested.—Matthew Creely and John Hughes, the boys charged with the larceny of a watch and money from the store of W. H. Ackesson, on Wylie street, several days since, were arrested yesterday. They acknowledged their guilt, and state that the money was taken from them by larger boys, and that the watch was thrown in the Allegheny river. They were locked up for a hearing.

Blockaded.—Penn street, from Smith to Wilson, is for the present blockaded, and travel, except by the street cars, is prohibited in consequence of a portion of the street being torn up to lay water pipe. Wagons and other vehicles can go to Lawrenceville either by Smallman or Liberty streets, as the Street Commissioner has had a bridge placed over the ravine on the latter to enable wagons to cross.

Attempted Burglary.—At an early hour yesterday morning some thieves endeavored to gain an entrance to the dwelling of Mr. J. Powell, on Pennsylvania avenue, by forcing open the shutters and hoisting the window, but they failed in the attempt and had their labor for their pains. They next commenced to operate on a neighboring house, but the occupants being awake the burglars were frightened off.

Surety of the Peace.—Nancy Jane Blair, a colored lady and a native of "Ole Virginny," made information yesterday before Alderman McMasters against Julia Reed for surety of the peace. It is alleged that Julia having had her ire aroused by something which Nancy had done, threatened to divide her, or rather to tear each individual limb from her body, accompanying the threat with sundry fierce demonstrations. Julia was arrested and committed in default of $300 bail.

House Demolishing.—James Clinton, residing on McGee street, in the Eighth ward, was yesterday charged before Alderman McMasters with malicious mischief, on oath of Patrick Bradley. It is alleged that James occupies a house owned by Bradley, and an evening or two since he came home slightly under the influence of the "ardent," and proceeded to smash in the doors, windows, &c., of the establishment, damaging it to the amount of fifty dollars. A warrant was issued.

Lost Boy.—Last evening a little boy about ten years of age was picked up on the Commons, near the Penitentiary, Allegheny. He was lying on the Commons and when found was insensible. Being conveyed into the carpenter shop of Mr. Park, near by, he revived somewhat, and said his name was Francis Hanlon and that he lives on Green street, in the Third ward, but could give no further information as to how he got on the Commons or of himself. A wagon was procured and he was taken to the Mayor's office and a messenger dispatched in quest of his parents.

TERRIFIC OIL EXPLOSION.

Destruction of the Albion Oil Works—One Man Killed, One Missing and Another Terribly Burned.

A most terrible accident occurred about six o'clock last evening, at the Albion Oil Works of Messrs. Waring & Rafferty, situated at Bennett's Station, on the Western Pennsylvania Railroad, about three miles north of the city, resulting in the destruction of the entire works, about five hundred barrels of crude oil, and the death of one man and probably fatal injury of two others.

It appears that a train, consisting of sixteen tank cars, filled with crude oil, had been shifted on the siding at the works, several of the cars standing in front of the furnaces which heated the stills. Mr. Lafferty was engaged in unloading the cars when a bung in one of them near the furnace came out, creating so great a pressure of gas as to blow the spigot out of a tank on the side next the furnace, and forcing a stream of oil into the fire. The consequence was the instantaneous explosion of the tank, which was followed by seven or eight other explosions at short intervals. The burning oil from the exploded tanks was scattered in every direction, causing death and destruction to every perishable object in the vicinity.

In an instant after the first explosion the entire works were in flames, and the ground for hundreds of feet around was a glaring sheet of fire. Mr. Lafferty, a member of the firm, who, as stated above, was engaged in unloading the cars at the time the accident occurred, was covered with the burning oil, which ignited his clothing, surrounding him with a sheet of flame. In this condition he made his way through the firy wall by which he was encompassed to the river, and plunging in extinguished the flames, not, however, before receiving serious and perhaps fatal injury. His sides, breast, hands and arms were fearfully burned, and it is feared that, in making his way to the river through the suffocating smoke and fire, he inhaled the flame and received internal injuries, which may result in his death. His hands were burned to such an extent that the flesh fell from them, leaving the bones exposed. Mr. L. was removed to his residence, No. 90 Wylie street, this city, and Dr. Pollock summoned to attend him. His family were absent but have been telegraphed to, and will arrive this morning.

James Gonnigle, a boy about seventeen years of age, an employe at the works, was standing near the train and by the first explosion was blown a distance of over thirty feet, and before assistance could reach him was burned to a crisp. He was the only support of a widowed mother and several small brothers and sisters. Coroner Clawson has been notified and will hold an ingest on the body this morning.

The stillman, whose name we failed to learn, was at works near the scene of the explosion a few moments before the occurrence, but has not since been heard of. It is presumed that he perished in the flames.

The oil in a portion of the tanks was saved by the cars becoming detached. As the train was standing on a slight grade they run back on the main track some distance from the works and out of reach of the devouring element.

The conflagration was still raging when our reporter left the ground, and it is probable that everything of an inflammable nature within reach was consumed. We are unable to make any estimate of the amount of property destroyed, but presume it will not fall short of twenty thousand dollars. There was probably no insurance on either the building or oil, and consequently the loss will fall solely upon the proprietors.

Adjourned to meet Tuesday, August 4th, 1868.

Church Renovation.

The First Cumberland Presbyterian Church, Sixth street, Rev. Squires, pastor, is closed at present and will remain so for a short time, for the purpose of renovation. It is designed to give it a new coat of paint, fresco the ceiling and walls inside, restain the glass in the windows, replace the old carpet with a new one and completely renovate the building throughout. When finished the improvements cannot fail to add materially to its appearance and render it a much more inviting place of worship.

City Executive Committee.

A meeting of the Republican City Executive Committee was held at City Hall, "Republican headquarters," last evening.

The meeting was called to order at half-past seven o'clock, the President, Joseph A. Butler, in the chair, and Captain W. B. Cook acting as Secretary pro tem.

The Chairman stated that the meeting had been called for the purpose of fixing the places of holding the primary elections in order that the same might be published in the call for the election.

Major A. M. Brown moved that the election in the Fifth ward be held at the Court House, and that the officers who held the previous primary election be designated as the election officers.

Mr. Kaye moved to amend by allowing the Committee from that ward to name the election officers.

The motion was adopted, and A. G. Neeper, Robert J. Smith and George Glass were designated as the election officers.

Major A. M. Brown offered the following resolution.

Resolved, That we recommend to the officers of the primary election the enforcement of all legal rules respecting the qualifications of voters at general elections, in addition to the requirements that the voter shall be a known member of the Union Republican party.

The resolution was adopted by a unanimous vote.

Gen. A. L. Pearson, Secretary, presented a call for the City Convention, and providing for the time and place of holding the primary elections. The call was adopted and ordered to be published.

On motion of Major A. M. Brown, the President and Secretary were authorized to insert the names of election officers and places of holding elections in the general call, when reported to them from the several members of the Committee for such wards wherein they are not already designated.

On motion adjourned, to meet at the call of the Chairman.

Caught the Wrong Man.

A few evening since a young man, apparently from the country, judging from the cut of his clothes and the material of which they were made, carelessly sauntered into a well known gambling house on one of our principal streets, and walking up to the bar asked for something to drink. The bar-keeper waited upon him, and after drinking he seated himself in an easy chair in a careless manner, where he remained for a considerable time without attracting any notice. Finally, the "stool pigeon" of the establishment entered the bar-room and his attention was called to the stranger by the bar-keeper, who had observed a well filled pocket book in the possession of the "man from the country" when he settled for his drink. Seeing a speculation the "pigeon" invited the stranger to drink, an invitation he accepted, and in a short time afterward a game of "poker" was proposed and the stranger invited to take a hand, which proposition he acceded to after being pressed to do so. A party of four retired to an upper room, kept for the purpose, with the intention, doubtless, of "plucking" their game; but the sequel proved that they had "reckoned without their host." The game progressed smoothly for some time, the stranger winning and losing alternately, but invariably losing more than he won, until he was about five hundred dollars short. Thinking they had the greater portion of his money, the party who had sat down to "fleece" him began the "bluff game," with the intention of "beating" him out of the remainder or forcing him to quit the game. This, it appears, was what he desired, and his antagonists being thrown off their guard by his assumed greenness, allowed themselves to be completely taken in. He managed to slip in a "cool pack" upon them, and the first deal not only won back what he had previously lost, but about two thousand dollars additional, after which he left the establishment, remarking as he did so that he would "go and change clothes, as that country toggery, although profitable, was not comfortable." It was ascertained that he was a sharper from the East and had assumed the disguise of a countryman to enable him the more easily to fleece his victims.

Victimized.

A man named Samuel Burns is said to have victimized a party of twenty Philadelphians, by representing himself as the agent of the Pacific Railroad Company, authorized to make arrangements in engaging workmen for the road. He offered them one hundred dollars per month and board, which, of course, was a very good draw, and he succeeded in getting quite a number of hands to engage with him. After securing the men, Burns stated that they would have to pay their way to Pittsburgh and from that place they would be furnished with free transportation. He had made an arrangement with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company by which he could obtain a reduction in the rates. Each of the party gave him fifteen dollars, the amount of the reduced fare, and started on the journey. At Harrisburg Burns asked for seven dollars each, as the amount first paid was insufficient. The men accordingly gave him the additional seven dollars and proceeded on their way to Altoona. Arriving there they had breakfast, which Burns was liberal enough to pay for. After eating breakfast the reputed agent suddenly disappeared and was seen no more. For a long while the party waited for his coming, but gradually as train after train passed, the truth began to dawn upon them. When the soil was at first discovered, quite a scene of threatening, raving and swearing ensued, but gradually the party settled down and tried to make the best of it. Some of them went back to Philadelphia, and others, having friends in Pittsburgh, came on through. Taken altogether this was one of the most plausibly contrived and carried out sells on record. Burns is represented as a short, heavy set man, four feet six inches high, dark complexioned, full whiskers, long hair and a scar above one eye. He is certainly an adept at the business and conducts with an amount of shrewdness worthy of a better cause.

Fire at Woods Run.

Between nine and ten o'clock Monday night a fire broke out in the shed occupied by the agitators of the Adresco oil works near Woods Run. An alarm was struck from box 2, Sixth ward, Allegheny, which brought the fire department promptly to the ground. Notwithstaning all their exertions the fire continued to burn until noon of the next day, entirely consuming the building and the oil in two of the agitators, each containing about 300 barrels undergoing the refining process. The building was valued at $2,500, which was fully covered by insurance. The loss on the oil will probably reach $5,000, on which there is no insusance. The cause of the fire is not known, but it is supposed to have originated from the sparks of a passing locomotive.

The Adresco is one of the largest works in this vicinity, and is owned and operated by Messrs. Joseph Fleming & Co.

The Lowry Fire Plug.—The authorities of Cleveland have received from this city one of the Lowry Fire Plugs, of which the Herald says: "The Fire Department has received from Pittsburgh a new kind of fire plug, capable of throwing six streams at once. Though similar plugs are in use in other large cities, this is Cleveland's first. In case of fire, the hose of six engines can be attached to the plug at the same time. The plug will be placed by the Atwater block."

United States District Court—Judge McCandless.

In the bankruptcy branch yesterday a final discharge was granted and certificate awarded to Samuel F. Andrews, of Erie county.

Petitions for final discharge were filed by E. W. Stevens, W. A. Stevens, Hugh D. McComb, John McElevey, of Lawrence county, John W. Porter, of Warren county.

In the matter of Ellis Morris, tried at Erie on specifications against bankrupt's discharge, and a verdict rendered that facts set forth in the specifications were not true, on motion of A. B. McCalmont, Esq., the Court directed a decree of discharge to issue upon bankrupt filing oath of conformity and payment of costs accruing prior to the filing of said specifications.

On like motion, James E. Steele, a bankrupt, was permitted to amend schedule attached to his petition.

In the case of David Munn and N. W. Odell, the Court granted leave to assignees to sell certain real estate.

In the matter of Peter Lockwood, bankrupt, upon petition filed, leave was granted to Hood, Bonbright & Co. to withdraw their proof of debt.

Robbery in Allegheny.

Monday evening Hippely & Beckert's feed store, at the Troy Hill passenger car station in Allegheny, was entered by some thieves who forced open the shutter of a rear window. They first commenced on the safe, operating on it with a chisel, but failed to open it, spoiling the lock, however, which could not be worked next morning without the aid of a locksmith. Finding the safe a very secure one, they next turned their attention to other parts of the store, going through a desk which contained nothing but a quantity of papers. Continuing their search, they collected a number of articles consisting of a small clock, a gold pen, balance scales, microscope and silver-headed pipe, which they carried off, evidently retiring by the same way as that through which their entrance was effected. There have been no arrests made as yet, though the officers have their suspicions.

Tobacco Store Robbed.

Some time during Sunday night the tobacco store of J. T. Lacock, on Federal street, a few doors below the suspension bridge, was entered and robbed of goods to the amount of sixty dollars. The thieves gained admission from the rear, and from the manner in which the job was manipulated it was surmised that the robbery had been done by some persons acquainted with the place. The police kept a sharp look out and yesterday arrested a lad about sixteen years old, named Charles Seely, on suspicion of being one of the guilty parties. Seely on being conveyed to the lock up, it is said confessed to have had a hand in the affair, and implicated two of his companions, one of whom George McNamara, was arrested soon after. The officers were in quest of the other chap last night, and doubtless he will be found in the lock up this morning, when a hearing will be had in the case.

Lumber, Lumber.

There are thousands of persons in the cities and neighboring boroughs and in the outlying districts engaged in building who are obliged to purchase lumber, and at times are embarassed to know or decide where or of whom to purchase. It will be seen by an advertisement in this day's GAZETTE that Mr. Alexander Patterson has two extensive yards at 86 Preble street and 157 Rebecca street, Allegheny, in which several million feet of lumber are kept for sale. This stock embraces nearly all varieties of oak, ash, hemlock and pine boards and scantling, much of which is thoroughly seasoned; also a large stock of locust and cedar posts, sawed, and shingles, together with fire brick tile and clay, in large or small quantities. This being said it remains for us to certify to parties not acquainted with Mr. Patterson that he has had a large experience in the lumber business, is very prompt in filling orders, and will be found reliable, upright and accommodating.

Young Men's Sodality.

The annual picnic of the Young Men's Sodality, which is looked forward to with pleasure by that class of young persons who enjoy a day of unalloyed pleasure with a select company, will take place at Glenwood Grove to-morrow (Thursday,) the 30th instant. The manner in which the picnics of this society have heretofore been conducted is of itself sufficient to recommend them to all order and amusement loving persons. The gentlemen having the affair in charge are high minded, honorable men, and having the reputation of the society at stake, the public may rest assured that the picnic will be conducted in a manner perfectly satisfactory. Trains will leave the Pittsburgh and Connellsville Depot at 8 and 11 o'clock A. M., and 1, 3 and 4:30 P. M. The last train returning will arrive in the city at 7:30 P. M. Tickets can be procured of the members only, and no tickets will be sold on the ground.

A Musical Establishment Broken Up.

Some time ago an Italian formed a partnership with a crippled soldier to engage in the organ grinding business. The business was carried on in Allegheny for a while until the authorities put a stop to it, when the establishment removed to Pittsburgh, where it flourished until a day or two since when the proprietors were arrested. At the hearing yesterday morning it appeared that the poor soldier was not only grinding the machine, but was being in turn ground himself by his Italian partner, who appropriated considerably the largest portions of the profits to himself. Mayor Blackmore, in consideration of this fact, fined the Italian fifteen dollars and committed the soldier for five days, he apparently having no abiding place or means of support.

Open Air Meeting Last Evening.—Last evening the open air meeting on Duquesne Way, below Hand street, under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association, attracted quite a large crowd to the spot. Mr. H. K. Porter had charge of the affair, and made a short address, followed by Messrs. Jennings, Long, Bell and Henderson. The exercises were interspered with some fine singing, which added considerably to the interest.

Thirteenth Misunderstanding.—Rebecca Q. Wifler made information yesterday before Alderman Baillie, against Sarah Drusedore for surety of the peace. She alleges that the defendant threatened to turn the tenants out of her house by force. At the hearing the case was dismissed. We understand that this is the thirteenth misunderstanding between the parties, and the fourth regarding the present case.

Capt. Edward Morgan, local steamboat inspector at St. Louis, who committed suicide on the 26th inst., was a native of Brownsville, Pa., and born in 1817. His family were Quakers. In 1836 he was engineer on the Lady Madison, running from Pittsburgh to St. Louis, which profession he subsequently followed, until within two years past, on the western waters, where he was regarded as one of the very best of engineers.

Omission.—We omitted to state in our report of Council proceedings, yesterday, that the Select concurred with the Common branch in instructing the Police Committee to provide station houses in the old Ninth ward, Lawrenceville, East Liberty and Oakland.

Blackwood's Edinburg Magazine for July, replete as usual with live and instructive contributions, for sale by W. H. Gildendenny, 65 Fifth street.

More Weed Sewing Machines Sold than All Others Combined.

It is now generally conceded that the Weed Sewing Machine is the most reliable machine in the market. Of this, the number and variety of other machines brought in to exchange for the Weed is sufficient proof.

A First Class Saloon.

The saloon at No. 105 Fifth street, under the supervision of Mr. P. H. M'Guire, is in every respect a first class establishment. The rooms are admirably arranged for the purpose, and are elegantly and tastefully furnished. The ladies' dining room is separate and distinct from the other apartments consequently ladies either alone or attended by gentlemen can visit the establishment with the utmost propriety. The tables are supplied at all times with the best of everything to be obtained in the market, including all the delicacies of the season. The situation of the house is a recommendation, as it is located on the upper portion of Fifth street, in a quiet and pleasant community. Notwithstanding this establishment has been opened to the public but a short time, it is highly appreciated, and is destined to be one of the leading dining saloons in the city. We take pleasure in recommending the establishment to the public generally.

Now is the Time.

Property owners and others having plumbing or gas fitting to do, if they are wise, will of course have the work done while the weather is pleasant, the reasons for which are so numerous and palpable that it is useless for us to recite them. In this connection we would call attention to the fact that Mr. T. T. Ewens, whose establishment is at No. 165 Wood street, is a practical plumber, steam and gas fitter himself, employs none but the best workmen, and the result is that work entrusted to him invariably renders satisfaction. At his store will be found a full supply of gas and water fixtures which will be furnished at the most reasonable rates. He also gives especial attention to work in the country. All orders executed promptly.

The Place to Purchase.

It is a settled principle in every branch of trade, as well as a matter of economy, for purchasers to buy their goods where they can get the best article for the least money, and it is upon this principle that crowds of persons daily throng the book and stationery store of Colonel J. D. Eagan, Sixth street, near Smithfield. The Colonel's stock embraces over five thousand volumes of rare and valuable books, which he is selling at less than eastern prices. All the magazines for August are already upon his counter, and the most complete and best assorted stock of writing paper, envelopes, &c., he offers to the public at the most reasonable rates, either wholesale or retail. Country dealers should give him a call.

The Original Diamond Front.

McBride & George are the proprietors of the "Original Diamond Front" grocery store, No. 164 Federal street, Allegheny. This establishment is now one of the leading business houses in the two cities, and for quality of goods has no superior in the West. The most complete assortment of tea, coffee, sugar and spices to be found in the city is constantly kept on hand, so that the purchaser has no difficulty at any time in receiving anything he may desire in the grocery line. The firm also deal extensively in provisions of all kinds, and in fact keep a first-class family store.

Remember the Sale of Dry Goods, without regard to cost, at the Masonic Hall Auction House of Smithson, Vanhook & McClelland, Nos. 55 and 57 Fifth street. The firm have determined to withdraw entirely from this department of their business, and hence no respect is paid to the original cost of goods. Never before in this city have such unusual bargains in dress goods, housekeeping goods, sunshades, parasols, quilts, spreads, rugs, mattrasses, etc., etc., been offered, and those who fail to attend will miss a glowing opportunity. We feel that we are unable to impress in strong enough terms the importance of our readers laying in a full supply of such goods during the continuance of this great sacrifice sale.

The Question Settled.—It is a settled fact that at the "Original Diamond Front Grocery," No. 164 Federal street, Allegheny, is to be found one of the largest and best selected stocks of tea, sugar, spices, canned fruits and provisions in the two cities. Messrs. McBride & George, the gentlemanly proprietors of the establishment, are both practical business men and fully understand the wants of their customers. Housekeepers and the community in general cannot fail to be suited at the "Diamond Front," both in quality of goods and the prices at which they are sold.

The Emporium for fashionable goods is at 21 Fifth street, the old and well known firm of Bates & Bell. The stock of dry goods now offered to the public at this representative house is one of the largest and best selected in the city, and purchasers will find it to their advantage to examine it. The firm have established a reputation for keeping a superior quality of goods, and the purchaser has the advantage of making his selections from the immense stock, which includes a greater variety than is usually offered in this market.

The Continental.—We can think of no better place in the city to get a good, clean, square meal than at Holtzheimer's Continental Dining Rooms, Fifth street, next door to the Postoffice. Mr. H. has had an extensive experience as a caterer, and in his line has no superior. The dining rooms are always kept in the most perfect order, and an accommodating corps of attendants are always ready to wait upon customers.

Bates & Bell, No. 21 Fifth street, have one of the largest and most judiciously selected stock of dress goods ever offered in this market, which, owing to the fact that they were purchased during the recent decline in goods of that quality in the East at very low rates, they are enabled to sell upon the most reasonable terms. The well established reputation of this old and reliable firm needs no recommendation. It is one of the leading business houses in the country.

Pure Fruit Syrups, viz: Pine Apple, Orange, Strawberry, Raspberry, Blackberry, Sarsaparilla, Lemon and Raspberry Vinegar, at the lowest prices at 112 Federal street, Allegheny city.

The Singer Sewing Machine.

It is perhaps well understood among the public that there is no better sewing machine than the Singer, and few which have attained to a higher degree of popularity. Combining most of the valuable features of other machines, and free from their defects it renders the utmost satisfaction in its work, and for many reasons is a great favorite with the operator. The Singer Machine is widely used in this vicinity, the business done by Straw & Morton, general agents, 40 St. Clair street, being remarkably large. Messrs. Straw & Morton will esteem it a pleasure to show the machine to visitors and let them see how it operates. Its execution is neat and rapid, and unattended with any of those inconveniences which cause so much trouble in other machines. Being undoubtedly one of the best, as it is one of the simplest before the public, any person about purchasing will do well to call at their office.

Among the latest patents granted are those of:

John Stancliffe, Pittsburgh, improvements in lathes.

Thomas Brown, Allegheny city, improved hydrant.

Roland H. Smith, Pittsburgh, design for a street lamp post.

John W. Hewitt and George R. Lynch furniture castor.

James Bingham and Robert Coward, combined rock crusher and tempering machine.

All the above were procured by Percival Beckett, Solicitor of Patents, Allegheny city.

At W. W. Moorhead's, 81 Market street, a large and well selected stock of lace goods and trimmings are being sold at remarkably low prices. The goods sold at this establishment are purchased from first class houses expressly for this market, thus saving the jobber's profit, consequently Mr. Moorhead is enabled to sell at lower rates the same quality of goods, than others are, who do not adopt his system of purchasing.

The Trimming Store at 81 Market street, Mr. W. W. Moorhead, proprietor, is the great emporium for ladies who want a first class article of fashionable goods. The stock of lace goods and trimmings is one of the largest and best selection ever brought to this market, and they are being sold at unusually low figures. The corps of clerks at this establishment take pleasure in showing goods to all who favor them with a call.

Holtzheimer's, on Fifth street, one door west of the west of the Postoffice, is the place for the hungry to go. His tables are always supplied with the best the market affords, which is prepared and served in a style to challenge competition. Remember the place, next door to the Postoffice, Fifth street.
